IRREGULARITIES IN U. S. SUBTREASURY HIDDEN BY 'KITTIES'

Practice of Clerks in Arbitrarily Correcting Errors Is Abolished by Vandiver.

HIGH OFFICIAL INVOLVED

Charges May Be Made Following Investigation — Remitting Banks Were Losers.

So-called "kitties" maintained by clerks in the United States Subtreasury here for the purpose of making up depleted funds in their charge one of which was known as the "gold kitty," and which were fed by money taken from overstocked bank packages, have been abolished by Assistant Treasurer W. D. Vandiver. He is conducting an investigation which may result in charges being preferred against men holding high positions in the local branch of the Treasury.

The "kitties" were discovered by former Subtreasurer O. L. Whitelaw, shortly before he retired from the office, July 28, and he ordered the money transferred to a suspension fund to await his successor, under orders from Washington.

The system, of which the "kitties" were the basis, involved the taking of money from one package and placing it in another.

"Overs" Go to the "Kitty."

For instance, a package of money received at the subtreasury office and labeled as containing $500 by the bank which sent it would, on being counted by the clerk, be found to contain $520 or some other amount slightly in excess of what it should be. Instead of returning the "over," as the excess was termed, to the bank, the clerk handling the money would place it in one of the "kitties."

Whenever a clerk was short in one of his shipments to Washington, for which he was held responsible, he would make the shortage good with money from the "kitty."

The "gold kitty" thrived on fractions. In redeeming gold coins short in weight, tellers would assess the shrinkage in whole grains instead of in fractions, as was frequently the case. For example a gold coin would be 4 1-4 grains short in weight. The teller would place the shortage at 5 grains. When hundreds of these coins had been accumulated, the amount, minus the fractions, would be shipped to Washington and the surplus would go into the "gold kitty."

Like the other, the "gold kitty" was reserved for the purpose of reimbursing clerks when they shipped "short" packages to Washington.

Orders Practice Stopped.

When Vandiver was informed of the custom he ordered the clerks to discontinue the practice. Later he communicated with the Treasury Department and was requested to make a full investigation. The investigation is now under way.

It is possible that charges may be preferred against a responsible official in the department as a result of disclosures which have been made. It is understood that the "kitties" were conducted with his knowledge and consent. His excuse is that he was following a long established custom.

Just how much money has been involved in the system is not known. There was no record kept of the fund. The Treasury Department has provided for "overs" by having what is called a suspension fund into which is placed all surplus moneys shipped from St. Louis to Washington. This fund is an indefinite affair and is disposed of at certain periods under orders from the department at Washington.

Aside from verifying the story, Subtreasurer Vandiver declined to discuss the matter beyond saying he had not yet made official charges against any of his assistants.

TRIES TO GET CENTRAL, FINDS WIRES ARE CUT

Man Suspects Visitor But Learns Latter Lost Five Nickels Also Trying to Get Her.

Emil Berger, a salesman for the Empire Distilling Co. of New York went into the saloon of William Bley, 109 North Broadway, Thursday night, to use the telephone. He had a quarter changed into nickels and entered the booth. After depositing the coins in the slot and getting no connection, he went out.

A moment later Bley went into the booth to use the phone and found the wires had been cut. He called the police and started on the trail of Berger, who was in a booth in a saloon at 110 North Broadway when Bley and a patrolman entered.

"That's the man," Bley said, pointing to Berger. Berger was told of the severed wires.

"Well, I poured several nickels into that phone and got no connection, but I didn't cut any wires," Berger explained. "I see now why I didn't get action for my money."

Inquiry at the Planters Hotel, where Berger had been stopping, established his identity. The mystery of the wire cutting has not been solved.

"Do a Thaw," Means "Beat It."

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22.—"Beat it," "skiddoo" and similar slang expressions have been superseded in Cleveland by "Do a Thaw."

"GENTLEMAN" ARRESTED FOR BLOCKING TRAFFIC

Charge of Resisting Officer Also Placed Against Henry O'Hara When He Takes Policeman to Station by Roundabout Route.

Henry H. O'Hara, 26 years old, of 4206 Lindell boulevard, who told the police he is "a gentleman by occupation," was charged with resisting arrest for driving Patrolman Thie of the traffic squad, who had arrested him, to Central Station by a roundabout route.

O'Hara was driving north on Broadway shortly after noon, when Patrolman Thie signaled north and south traffic to stop. O'Hara proceeded and was arrested.

"All right, jump in," said O'Hara when Thie informed him he would have to go to the station.

O'Hara then drove north to Washington avenue, west to Twelfth street and south to Clark avenue.

"He drove me four blocks out of the way," said Thie to the desk sergeant.

"Very well," replied the commanding officer. "We'll just charge him with resisting arrest."

O'Hara was indignant when the two charges were preferred against him.

"I may have violated the traffic rules," he said, "but how do you figure I resisted when I brought the officer to the station?"

No explanations were offered and O'Hara, despite his remonstrances, was being submitted to the customary search preliminary to being assigned to a cell when Adam Boettler, a baker, arrived and signed his bond.

WOMAN IS RIVER LIGHT TENDER; BIG DOGS GUARD HER

Takes Up Duties on Maple Island When Husband Goes to Bedside of Sick Relative.

Mrs. Mary Fenton, wife of James A. Fenton, light tender on Maple Island, four miles south of Alton, in the Mississippi River, says she is not lonely while she is the sole occupant of the island when she has the protection of her three dogs, which will not allow a stranger to land. She expects her husband to return soon from Quincy, Ill., where he went, Aug. 11, to the bedside of a sick niece.

Fenton sent a telegram to Alton, Friday, telling her he would come home in a few days. Word was sent to Mrs. Fenton by a boatman to come to the telegraph office and get the message.

Rows Up the River.

She rowed up the river to Alton and was given the telegram. The answer she sent back was:

"Stay as long as you like. The dogs and I are getting along fine on the island."

Mrs. Fenton has been alone on the island since her husband and daughter, Goldie, 14, left almost two weeks ago. Each night she rows in a skiff across to the Missouri shore and lights the beacon lights which guide river steamboats at night. Returning she lights the signals at various points on the island. During the day she tends her garden, corn patch, hogs and chickens.

Dogs Take Man's Oar.

Three dogs of the common yellow variety guard the island and no stranger dares approach closer than an oar's length. A few days ago a boatman tried to land and Mrs. Fenton had to rescue his oar, which had been snapped from his grasp by the animals.

When Fenton was notified that one of his nieces was seriously ill, his wife urged him to go to Quincy to see her and consented to his taking their daughter. She said she will be glad when her husband returns, giving her his protection in addition to the watchfulness of the dogs, but she is in no hurry.

The longest hot spell St. Louis ever saw, nearly two months and a half in duration, was broken early this morning by a breeze from Glacier Park.

Except for brief intervals after thundershowers this morning's temperature, although it was above 70, was the lowest since early June. The temperature never went above 102, so that the summer of 1913 will not look so severe, in the records, as that of 1901, when the readings ran considerably higher. But the remarkable things about this summer, Forecaster Hayes says, has been the long duration of the heat and the briefness of any intervals of respite.

The summer of 1901, which had such a drouth that prayers for rain were ordered throughout the State by Gov. Dockery, was hotter on certain days, but was not so continuously hot, as this one has been.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Fair tonight and tomorrow; cooler tonight.

EAST SIDE MAYOR MAY LET STORES OPEN ON SUNDAY

Decision Depends on Conference Arranged With Representatives of Business Houses.

Mayor Chamberlin of East St. Louis told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday afternoon that he has virtually decided not to issue an order to the police to arrest all retailers who open their stores Sunday.

Although he had previously announced that he would have the order issued, the Mayor has been under a fire of criticism all week because, while he declared retail stores in general would have to obey the Sunday closing ordinances, he intended to allow saloons to remain open, although the city code explicitly commands them to close.

To Advise Obtaining Warrants.

Chamberlin said he expected a delegation from the Retail Merchants' Association before the day is over. This is the body which has demanded enforcement of the closing law. He said he would advise them that the best thing for them to do is to have warrants issued against any persons whom they wish to prosecute for breaking the Sunday laws.

In this way, the mayor believes, the administration will be spared the embarrassments of the situation. If warrants are obtained from justices of the peace, the police will enforce them, but the police will make no Sunday closing campaign of its own initiative.

The mayor said that when the associated retailers first came to them with the representation that their body included 75 per cent of the retailers and that this percentage favored Sunday closing, he thought their wishes should be respected. It was for this reason that he at first determined to enforce the laws.

Political Trick Charged.

The opposition campaign of the Business eMn's Protective Association which has declared it will fight test cases through all the courts and which has already raised a war chest of $1300 to carry on the struggle, has set the Mayor to thinking, however. His friends have advised him that the whole affair has been cleverly maneuvered to get him into a political embroglio with various factions.

While the Mayor did not go so far as to say positively he would not issue the order to the police, he said he has at present no intention of doing so.

POOL WATER IS ANALYZED

City Bacteriologist Harris is having samples of water taken from the various bathing pools chemically analyzed to ascertain if they contain bacteria.

Health Commissioner Starkloff, in a circular recently issued relative to the spread of typhoid fever, suggested that the public's generous use of the pools might be responsible.

NOTABLES WORK ROBYN LANE WITH PICK AND SHOVEL

$20,000,000 in High-Price Labor Expended on Road While the Cameras Click.

NURSING BLISTERS NOW

Mayor Kiel, August Busch, Sheriff Dickmann, Capt. McCulloch Among Toilers.

About $20,000,000 worth of high-priced labor was expended on Robyn Lane, in St. Louis County, without seriously injuring it Thursday afternoon.

Expert road builders who inspected the lane after prominent St. Louis men had done their worst with shovels, picks and scrapers, expressed the opinion that it could be saved.

Realizing that a drag is the best thing to make a road with certain owners of country homes near Sunset Inn figuratively used their "drag" to induce their rich and influential friends to quit clipping coupons long enough to transform Robyn Lane into a boulevard.

Mayor Kiel and many other notables were there. At this writing they are putting soothing lotions on their blistered palms and wondering how the photographs turned out.

Poses With His Shovel.

The estimate that the labor expended on Robyn Lane was worth $20,000,000 was not made by the professional road overseer, whose duty it will be to pull the road through despite what happened Thursday. It rather represents the amount that the volunteer workers would and could have paid the boss to fire them after they had put in one long and arduous hour on the job.

The difference between a millionaire road builder and the other kind is that one picks his work and the other works his pick. This may sound harsh, but, as William Marion Reedy remarked while posing with a shovel, there are times when it is proper to call a spade a spade. Only that isn't what Reedy called it after ten minutes of more or less strenuous digging.

Short With Many Turns.

Robyn lane is a short one that has many turnings. Its general direction can best be determined by shooting the sun on a clear day or boxing the compass in cloudy weather. It is bounded on the north by the Denny road and on the south by a barbecue. It is so short that Claude B. Martin, the eminent baseball rooter, could stand at one end of it and tell an umpire at the other end what he thought of him, without using a megaphone. This test was actually made Thursday afternoon. For the purposes of the experiment Sheriff Dickmann played the part of the umpire.

In passing—not along Robyn Lane, but down the easier path of barbecued metaphor—it may be said that the busy little bee has nothing on Capt. Robert McCulloch, president and general manager of the United Railways Co.

White Flannel Trousers.

Of the many prominent citizens who were invited to aid in manicuring and massaging Robyn Lane, Capt. McCulloch was the first to report for duty. For nearly two hours he worked with pick and shovel. John W. Kearney was unkind enough to say that someone must have told the Captain there was a nickel buried in Robyn Lane. There may have been, but if the Captain found it nobody heard him ring it up.

Joseph Gilman Miller, who sells steel rails when he isn't shoveling, set a new fashion for road makers. Henceforth no knight of the road can hope to move in Miller's set unless he wears a pair of white flannel trousers while at work.

George J. Tansey, president of the St. Louis Transfer Co., was among those present. Julius Strauss, photographer, whose costume consisted mainly of ordinary clothing, was plainly jealous of Tansey's pith helmet, green necktie, red bandana and brindle trousers. He contemptuously remarked that Tansey looked a combination of St. Patrick's day and an Italian Cavalry parade. Which, of course, he didn't. F. E. A.

MEXICAN CONSUL HERE OFFENDED AT TOWN CLUB SPEECH

Senor Baz, Guest of Women's Organization, Hears Huerta Government Denounced.

Joseph Wheless, speaking before the Town Club, a new organization of business and professional women, at a South Grand avenue open air cafe, Thursday night, said that the present Government of Mexico was based on treachery and assassination.

Immediately Fernando Baz, Mexican Consul, who was an invited guest, arose from his table and left the place. Senora Baz remained at the table.

Miss Charlotte Rumbold, president of the Town Club, and Miss Genevieve Tierney, secretary, hastened after the Consul, and told him they were sure Wheless had not meant to give offense.

Wheless Regrets Remarks.

Wheless, who had been discoursing on social and economic conditions in Mexico, cut short his talk and followed the club's officers outside. He told Baz that he regretted having made a remark which, he realized, no official representative of the Mexican Government could hear without dissent.

Baz had little to say. He remarked that he could not listen to such language about his country without showing his disapproval, and Wheless assured him again that no reflection on the Mexican people, as a whole, was meant.

Baz at length accepted Wheless' apology, and shook hands with him. But Wheless did not feel that he had made sufficient reparation, and Friday he called at the consulate and renewed his explanations and apologies.

Sorry It Happened.

"I am awfully sorry it happened," Wheless told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "The words just slipped out. They indicate my feeling as to the Huerta Government, but, of course, it was not proper for me to express such an opinion in the presence of Senor Baz, who was an invited guest with myself. I do not blame him in the least for objecting."

Wheless, who is a lawyer, has spent some time in Mexico, and has studied the laws and customs of that country. In his talk before the Town Club, he reviewed Mexican history from the days of Cortes. He strayed into present day themes when he urged his hearers to uphold President Wilson in his policy of non-recognition toward Huerta, and it was then that he made the remark which offended the Consul.

JUDGE GRIMM REFUSES TO CHANGE MAN'S NAME

Declaring that for years his father and other members of the family had been using an assumed name, John Rowlandson appeared in Judge Grimm's court Friday and asked for an order showing that his name is Rowlands.

The petitioner, who is 41 years old testified that when he was a young man he was informed by his mother that his father had assumed the name of Rowlandson 50 years ago, although his right name was Rowlands. The parents are dead.

Judge Grimm held that under Rowlandson's petition the Court was without authority to grant the request, but said there was nothing to prevent the plaintiff calling himself Rowlands.

Judge Grimm postponed passing on the case finally, authorizing the filing of an amended petition. Rowlandson is a switchman employed by the Terminal Association. He lives at 1210 Sale street.

THAW'S LAWYERS PLAN TO SUBMIT TO DEPORTATION

They Hope He Will Be Sent to Point of Own Selection—His Relatives Go Home, Confident of Future.

By Associated Press.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 22.—Until Wednesday of next week, barring unforseen developments, Harry Kendall Thaw will remain in the Sherbrooke Jail. On that day he is to be arraigned in the Superior Court on a writ of habeas corpus. Between now and that time his Canadian lawyers hope to perceft the plans, not to thwart deportation, but to submit to it gracefully to a point selected by Thaw.

The hearing in the case of "Mitchell Thompson," charged with aiding a lunatic in crossing the Canadian frontier, was postponed today until Friday next. Thompson was arraigned before Police Judge Mulvena. F. Campbell, acting jointly for the Dominion Department of Immigration and the Dutchess County (N. Y.) authorities, asked that the case be put over on the ground that documents from Matteawan, showing that Thaw had been confined there and is insane, had not arrived here.

Glasses Disguises Thompson.

Thompson was in court, disguised by a pair of smoked glasses. Pictures of "Gentleman Roger" had arrived during the night, however, and Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess County, holding one of these, gazing at the prisoner, said:

"Who could miss it? It certainly is Roger!"

Thompson said not a word. All of Thaw's lawyers were present.

Thaw has been advised by certain of his counsel to buy property in Canada and take steps to become naturalized as a British subject. This, it was held, would prevent his deportation.

Details of Thaw's trip on the night before he was arrested near Cotaicook were obtained by immigration officials.

According to these officials, Thaw, when he left the train at Berese Falls, Vt., had supper with his two companions, one of whom was Thompson. After supper they hired a rig and drove to Canaan, Vt. They then doubled back and crossed the frontier into Canada.

The roads were of the old corduroy variety and the horse was exhausted. When two miles from Canaan on the Canadian side the party was compelled to forsake the rig and hire another from an old French-Canadian farmer, Octave Nedeau. The best that Nedeau could give them was one horse and a rickety buggy. In this they made slow progress over the bad roads till St. Jermineglide-Garford was reached, when Thaw was arrested.

Carnegie Talks of Plans.

"I expect that Harry will be taken to Pittsburgh, if he is sent anywhere at all," said George Lauder Carnegie, whose wife is Harry Thaw's sister. "Harry has told me that it was his plan at the time he escaped to make his way to his home city. That the only way for him to go across the line to Canada was suggested to him by the men who were with him and landed him just outside of Colebrook, N. H.

There he did not care to take a chance by staying on the train and passing the scrutiny of the immigration authorities stationed at the border, who might be waiting for him armed with his description.

"Because Harry felt that he could not get a square deal in New York, which he and his family know, we are all delighted that he is for once out of the jurisdiction of the authorities there. The only thing that he could do was to make a break for liberty and he did that, he told me, without making any detailed plans for the future, but just by taking a long chance, which he firmly believed might prove so far successful that he could eventually make his way to Cresson, Pa., and there, near his birthplace, where all fairness would be accorded to him, he hoped to prove to the world that he is not a lunatic."

"Will Harry stand by the five men who helped him to escape from Matteawan?" Carnegie was asked.

"He positively will stick to them. They took some terrible chances, I understand, in piloting their automobiles over all manner of roads. Harry will not forget them if they are in trouble, I am told by him."

"Harry said yesterday that his wife's determination to go back to the stage life on Broadway has a great deal to do with his making up his mind to break away from the asylum. Do you think there will be a reconciliation in the event of his being freed?"

"No, I do not believe that Harry will again live with Evelyn. What I understand is that he has the greatest amount of sympathy for her and that he has not lost any regard, but I am quite sure that he is through with her so far as going to live with her.

"I am sure, so sure of his future that I am going back to New York with Mrs. Carnegie and I believe everyone will believe I would not do that if I thought there was any doubt about the outcome.

"It is useless to repeat that all the money possible will be devoted to restoring Harry to his freedom."

The Carnegies departed last night for home.

Bryan Tells Sulzer U. S. Can't Act Officially in Thaw Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Secretary Bryan today sent the following telegram to Hon. William Sulzer, Albany, N. Y.:

"This case of Thaw, being one of which, in its present aspect, involves the application of Canadian immigration laws, this Government cannot act officially. Steps have been taken to lay the information as to his escape informally before the Canadian authorities."

Sulzer asked that the Canadian immigration authorities be requested to return Thaw to Rouses Point, N. Y.

Bryan responded to acting Gov. Glynn's appeal for assistance in the effort to bring the Matteawan fugitive back into New York by sending the following personal telegram to British Ambassador Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, now at Dublin, N. H.:

"We are informed that Harry K. Thaw, who lately escaped from an insane asylum in New York, in which he was confined after acquittal for murder, on the grounds of insanity, is in custody in the Province of Quebec, with a view to his deportation under the Canadian immigration laws. The department, while not in a position to make a request in the matter, which in its present aspect is not within our extradition treaties, brings it to your notice, with a view to such action as the Canadian authorities may find themselves justified in taking."

Secretary Wilson, who has charge of the Immigration Bureau, today sent this dispatch to Acting Gov. Glynn and Attorney-General Carmody:

"I am unable to find any law which would authorize the Department of Labor to ask the Canadian Government to deport Harry K. Thaw to the State of New York, as requested by you."

HANDS OFF U. S. CITIZENS, BRYAN WARNS MEXICANS

Huerta and Constitutionalist Forces Warned Perpetrators of Outrages Personally Will Be Held Responsible for Acts.

Curt Note Follows Report of Threats of Death for American Engineers Who Are Near Chihuahua City.

Lind Dispatches Intimate Huerta Would Welcome New Peace Parleys—Wilson to Read His Message Monday.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Curt warning to both the Huerta and Constitutionalist commanders at La Boquilla, Chihuahua, Mexico, that the United States will hold them personally responsible for any violence against Americans by "anyone claiming civil or military authority" was sent today by Secretary Bryan, through American Consul Letcher at Chihuahua City.

Secretary Bryan instructed Letcher to dispatch his message at La Boquilla by courier and secure an answer. His action was in response to a request by Senator Penrose for steps to protect S. C. Hulse, Chief Engineer Fuller and other Americans in the plant of the Mexican Northern Power and Irrigation Co.

Secretary Bryan's telegram follows:

"Information having been received by this Government threats of violence and death have been made against Fuller, Hulse and others at La Boquilla, this Government deems it proper to say that if any violence is visited upon any American citizen there or elsewhere by anyone claiming civil or military authority, the United States will hold personally responsible the perpetrators thereof.

"Courier should ascertain conditions of all foreigners at La Boquilla and report with reply the officer in charge makes to this Government message."

The reference to the protection of American citizens "elsewhere" is taken as indicative of the attitude of the United States in the protection of Americans, wherever their safety is threatened.

Wilson Message Monday.

President Wilson will personally read his message on Mexico to both houses of Congress Monday, outlining what has been done by the United States to bring about peace. He worked practically all today on it. Except for a short conference with Secretary Bryan the President denied himself to all visitors and worked alone in his study in the White House.

The message will summarize the principal points made in the note presented by John Lind and the contentions of the Huerta Government in reply. The full text of both communications will be presented to Congress as exhibits.

No recommendations for action will be made, but the President's statement is expected to reiterate the attitude of this Government and indicate that only on the basis therein outlined can negotiations with the Huerta Government be continued.

Huerta Seeks New Parleys.

The administration feels that the reading of the message will itself be a factor in the situation, serving, perhaps, further to emphasize that the United States will under no circumstances recognize any but constitutional government in Mexico. The effect of the United States is said to be already apparent. Dispatches today from John Lind indicate that the Mexican administration would welcome parleys. The Huerta government, it is said, is casting about for new ground on which to renew the negotiations.

Another factor which contributes to the optimism of administration officials is a reported disposition in Europe to deny to the Huerta government any further loans, pending the outcome of the efforts of the United States to bring about peace.

It has been shown that the Senate will stand squarely behind the President in whatever recommendation he may make. This was demonstrated in the debate yesterday, when Republican members condemned the resolution of Senator Penrose, Republican, directing the President to send an armed force into Mexico to protect the lives of Americans there and setting apart $25,000,000 to be used for this purpose as the executive might direct.

The President does not believe the war element in either House is strong enough to force the United States to take anything like as drastic a step as intervention. There is not the slightest fear on the part of the President and his advisers that the Penrose resolution will prevail. On the contrary, the President is of the opinion that the relations between the United States and Mexico will continue friendly.

Already the administration has returned to the original policy of noninterference. Commissioner Lind will not return to the States at once. According to present plans he will remain in Mexico City and act as counsellor of the American Embassy there.

President Wilson was much pleased over the tone of the Huerta note. Throughout the note there is a sneering vein which was unpleasant, but the President does not regard the tone of the note as a sufficient cause for him to break off the diplomatic relations.

Message to Answer Huerta.

There is a well defined belief in official circles that President Wilson thinks the reading of an address which will lay the American viewpoint and the Huerta contentions before the Congress and people of this country, and which also will be made public to the world generally, cannot but have an important effect on the situation in Mexico. It is expected to be in part an answer to the intimations of Provisional President Huerta in his note that President Wilson stands alone in his Mexican policy and unsupported generally in Congress.

The first refutation of this Huerta supposition came in the Senate yesterday when prominent Republicans upheld the hands of the President. Expressions of confidence in the wisdom and good faith of President Wilson were made by several Republican leaders in succession, after Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, Republican, had introduced his resolution.

The President complimented Republican Senators on their spirit of co-operation, stating that there had not been the slightest exhibition of partizanship. That Provisional President Huerta has advanced the idea that recognition of his government is a partisan question in the United States and the Democratic party is not actually dominant, is admitted by administration officials, but they believe that if such an illusion exists in Mexico it will be dissipated shortly, not only by news of the debate in the Senate, but by the expectation that Congress in some way will show its confidence in the President when he submits his message.

The administration hopes that when the facts are known in Mexico the Huerta authorities may be more inclined to respect the American suggestions. The United States, in brief, has proposed that Huerta resign in favor of a provisional President acceptable to all sides and that a suspension of hostilities thereby be brought about and a constitutional election held, the resulting administration to receive the recognition of the United States Government.

Postmaster-General Burleson and Secretary Daniels were at the White House early today conferring with Secretary Tumulty and offering their advice on the message.

SHORTHAND WRITER DOES 272 WORDS A MINUTE

New York for Third Time Wins Championship and Keeps Silver Cup.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Nathan Behrin, reporter for the Supreme Court of New York, was announced winner of the shorthand reporters' championship of America at the banquet of the National Shorthand Reporters' Association in the Hotel La Salle. This is the third consecutive time this contest has been won by Behrin, and the association's silver cup, which has been in his possession two years, is now his permanent property.

Only one other writer, John S. Castle of Chicago, made a high enough score to qualify. Although Behrin won over by a wide margin, his score fell far below last year's. His score this year was as follows: 200 words a minute for five minutes, with 8 errors; 240 words a minute for five minutes, with 14 errors; 280 words a minute for five minutes with 44 errors, making an average of 96.86 per cent accuracy, or a score of 273 words a minute. His record last year, was 278 words a minute, or 97.01 per cent accuracy.

50 NEWLYWEDS AMONG 250 COUPLES SEEKING DIVORCE

Wife Doesn't Have to Wear Wedding Ring Judge Says—Warns Girls to Avoid Boxers

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Of 250 couples that applied today for divorce, 50 were brides and bridegrooms. To the husband of Elizabeth Klein, who complained that his wife had discarded her wedding ring and was not entitled to support, Judge Barrett said:

"This is a progressive age. Women have a right to do as they please, and if a woman does not want to wear her wedding ring, that is her affair and should not be regarded as an indication that she has no regard for the marriage ceremony."

After disposing of the cases of three prize fighters, all of whom argued they were back in their alimony because the summer was their slack season, the Court said:

"I warn all women, and particularly young girls, not to marry boxers. They cannot expect support from men who work only when the weather suits them."

BUTCHERS QUARREL, ONE STABBED THROUGH HEART

Women Scream and Flee When Men Fight Death Struggle Across Meat Block.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—While the salesroom in one of the largest retail meat markets here was full of customers today, Frank Mooney and Mark Hamilton, meat cutters, engaged in a struggle across a meat block in the rear until Mooney fell dead with the blade of a butcher knife thrust through his heart. Women screamed and fled.

According to the police, to whom Hamilton surrendered, the man said the fight was the climax of an old quarrel and he had stabbed Mooney because "He couldn't stand his cursing."

Hamilton is 42 years old. Mooney was 24.

GIRLS IGNORE MAN BUT HE FOLLOWS THEM IN AUTO

Machine Trails Street Cars Until Miss Lucy Bain Reaches Her Home.

Miss Lucy Bain, 18 years old, daughter of Robert E. M. Bain of 3801 Flora boulevard, and her companion, Miss Mary Cain, 18, of 13 North Spring avenue, were waiting for a car at Delmar and Taylor avenues Thursday evening, when a five-passenger automobile stopped in front of them.

The machine was occupied by two men, one acting as chauffeur. The other was a large man, about 45 years old, with a dark mustache. He invited the girls to get into the machine, addressing them as "kids."

Ignoring the stranger, they boarded the first eastbound car that approached, the automobile following the car. At Grand avenue and Olive street, where they transferred to a Grand car, the machine stopped in front of them and the stranger repeated his invitation, telling the girls he would take them for a "fine ride."

Afraid to separate, Miss Bain and her companion both boarded the Grand car, although Miss Cain had intended to walk home. The machine followed the Grand car, and when the girls alighted at Flora boulevard the man in the tonneau again addressed them as "kids" and asked them to take a ride. They ran into the Bain home and the machine went west on Flora boulevard.

Miss Bain told the police the machine bore the license number 13,583 (State) but the police were unable to find any record of that number. Chief Young has wired the Secretary of State to learn to whom the license was issued.

NOTABLES WORK ON COUNTY ROADS

Curley, who is curator of the Art Museum and ought to know, said Tansey looked like the sun rising over Eads' Bridge.

At one stage of the road making there were threats of a strike because August A. Busch, one of our genial brewers, refused to yodel while he worked. Busch wore a green Cisalpine hat that seemed to clamor for the accompaniment of a yodel. Harry B. Hawes was appointed an arbitration committee of one to induce Busch to yodel. "You do it, Harry, I'm too busy," said Busch.

C. L. Holman, president of the Laclede Gaslight Co., was one of the real hard workers. He was so earnest in his effort to reform Robyn Lane that nobody attempted to make light of him.

Mayor in Several Poses.

Mayor Kiel worked in several poses. One of the photographers, preparing to make a group photograph called out: "Now, all hold your positions."

"How is a Democrat going to hold his position under Kiel?" said Billy Reedy.

And then there was the barbecue with the nimble-witted Claude Martin as toastmaster and Sheriff Dickmann as sergeant-at-arms.

Mayor Kiel sprung the big surprise of the day when called upon to speak.

"I can't make a speech, but I can sing a song," said the Mayor.

Kiel Sings a Rich Tenor.

Then, in a rich, pie-counter tenor, Mayor Kiel sang this:

"All I want is partridge for my breakfast,
A champagne fountain flowing at my feet,
With Gussie Busch a-waiting on the table
And Rigo's band a-playing while I eat.

If I only owned the Western Union cable,
If I only had an heiress for my wife,
If Elliott Major would only take the lid off—
Then I know that I'd be satisfied with life.

All I want is the new free bridge completed,
The bond issue for three millions and a half;
If Jeptha Howe would give us back that franchise,
Then for that east approach we'd find a path.

If we only owned an undergrounded subway,
Got universal transfers without strife;
If Jimmy Player would never raise the tax rate—
Then I know that we'd be satisfied with life."

Entertained at Sunset Inn.

The Mayor's song brought loud applause, hand-clapping and shouts of "good boy," "bully for you," and "that's the stuff."

George S. Johns of the Post-Dispatch, who is building a home near Robyn Lane, was the host at the barbecue. William Elbring, highway engineer of St. Louis County, supervised the amateur road making. He will complete the job with men who know how to do it.

After the barbecue many of the volunteer road workers were entertained by August A. Busch at Sunset Inn, which isn't far from Robyn Lane, if you take another road.

More than 50 business and professional men of the city and county took part in the effort to put Robyn Lane on the map.

KIEL ISSUES CALL FOR BOTH HOUSES TO MEET SEPT. 2

Mayor Says He Has Pressing Matters to Consider, but Does Not State What They Are.

Mayor Kiel Friday issued a call on both branches of the Municipal Assembly directing them to hold a special session Sept. 2 at 4 p. m. to consider certain pressing matters that he will present.

The Mayor does not state the nature of the pressing matters, but it is known that he will submit the question of an eastern approach for the free bridge, the question of a southern approach and the problem of whether a proposed bond issue shall be for $2,750,000 or $3,500,000.

Mayor Going to Dallas.

Mayor and Mrs. Kiel will depart Saturday for Dallas, Tex., to visit their son, Elmer, 19 years old, who is seriously ill. They expect to bring him back to St. Louis if he is able to travel.

Young Kiel has been a sufferer from Bright's disease at intervals since he was 11 years old. His recent attack has been more than usually serious and physicians have advised that he remain in a sanitarium on a prescribed diet for six months.

He is in Dallas for his father's concern, a bricklaying company, which is building a hotel and office building for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association.

PIECE OF CLOTH CLEW TO NEW YORK BOMB "PLANT"

Police Search Among City Hall Workmen for Wearer of Colored Cambric.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A piece of bright-colored cambric was the principal clew today in the investigation of the city hall bomb mystery. The cambric was wrapped around the four sticks of dynamite found yesterday in an areaway directly below Mayor Gaynor's window.

The bomb was anything but a hoax, for the fuse had been lighted and had gone out just before the spark reached the detonator. An explosion would have caved in the side of the building.

The detectives, however, have not yet decided whether the dynamite was meant for the Mayor or someone in the marriage license bureau, or was planted as a protest against the city government in general.

The cambric wrapper directed the search today among Italian workmen employed in blasting out the subway. A shaft of the subway opens near the city hall. The cambric was a kind that is popular among Italian women of the working class. The dynamite was too carefully arranged to admit a theory that it was dropped by accident.

PASTOR ACCUSED BY BOY ADMITS NIGHT ESCAPADE

The Rev. John G. Brodt Confesses Buying Beer and Taking Them to Disorderly House.

The Rev. John G. Brodt, 45 years old, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church, Union boulevard and Spalding avenue, confessed at the Carr Street Police Station Friday that he bought beer Thursday night for five boys, four of whom were 15 years old, and that he accompanied them to a disorderly house at 1612 Lucas avenue and spent money for them there. His excuse was that the boys "inveigled" him into the escapade.

Capt. Schoppe, who called the minister by telephone from his sister's home, at 2638A Union boulevard, said after questioning him, that he would apply for a warrant charging him with an infamous offense, defined in a statute recently enacted.

Boys of Reputable Families.

The boys, who were arrested when scuffling with Brodt at Sixteenth street and Franklin avenue about midnight, were held in the matron's room at the station. They are youths of good appearance, and belong to reputable families in the West End. They are Thomas Lahert, 17 years old, and his brother, Timothy, 15, of 2622 Clara avenue; Thomas Shroyer, 15, of 5334 Greer avenue; Kenneth Kahre, 15, of 5844 Highland avenue, and Arthur Shelton, 15, of 5813 Theodosia avenue.

Brodt is a widower, and has lived in St. Louis since last December. He came from Piper City, Ill. Both he and the boys say he had no previous acquaintance with any of them.

His first story of the affair, told before Capt. Schoppe had ordered his arrest, was that he met the boys on a car, and that they bantered and annoyed him until he got off the car. Then, he said, they followed him, tried to get him into a disorderly house, and finally robbed him.

Negress Confronts Him.

After he was confronted at the station by a negro woman from the Lucas avenue house, who said he had paid her $1.50 on behalf of one of the boys, the minister admitted that his previous statement had been in part untrue. He persisted in placing the blame on the boys, and he seemed more concerned over the $10 he had spent and lost in the night's frolic than over the disgrace of his arrest. He said the boys also took his watch from him.

The boys said they met the minister after 9 p. m., near a pool hall at Goodfellow and Easton avenues. He asked them if they wanted some beer, and when they provided tin pails, he sent to a saloon and bought seven pails of beer, which they drank. He pretended to drink, but did not.

After they had had all the beer they wanted, the boys say, the minister suggested they get on a car. They rode east to Sixteenth and Morgan streets and walked to Lucas avenue. In one of the houses on that block, the boys say, Brodt and two of the boys remained for some time, while the others stayed outside.

After they departed, the boys relate, they demanded car fare from the minister, and he told them he had no money, adding that they could search him. This, they say, they proceeded to do, when a policeman approached. The policeman thought they were robbing the man, and arrested the five.

The minister fled, but dropped a card case containing a National League baseball pass, on which his name and address appeared.

TURKEY IS LIKELY TO RETAIN ADRIANOPLE

Powers Reported to Have Reached This Decision and Notified Porte.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The report comes from Constantinople that the Sublime Porte has been informed through diplomatic channels that the Powers have decided that Adrianople shall remain Turkish, and that direct negotiations will be begun forthwith between Turkey and Bulgaria.

This report is not confirmed and according to Vienna advices the Powers are still seeking to arrive at an agreement and plan to threaten Turkey with financial starvation in the event of her refusal to respect the treaty of London by retiring behind the Enos-Midin line.

According to a special dispatch from Constantinople, a three hours' fight took place Wednesday at Ortakoi between the Turks and Bulgarians.

The Bucharest correspondent of the Daily Mail reports serious revolts among the disbanded Bulgarian troops when they learned of the peace treaty.

REVILES FLAG, IS JAILED

I. W. W. Organizer Gets Maximum Despite Retractions.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—After he had publicly renounced his allegiance to the Industrial Workers of the World and apologized for incendiary utterances in his speeches as an organizer for that body, Martin J. Phelan was given a sentence of $100 fine and 30 days workhouse imprisonment by City Judge Rubrecht today. The maximum sentence was imposed under a city ordinance.

The Court held that Phelan's speeches, in which he reviled the American flag, constituted an offense for which an apology alone was not adequate.

DIGGS JURYMAN TELLS OF WOMAN TALKING TO HIM

Government Begins Investigation of Alleged Tampering by Caminetti's Friend.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—With Maury I. Diggs convicted of violation of the Mann act and awaiting sentence, the machinery of the law was set in motion today to investigate the alleged approaching of William L. Bliss, one of the jurors.

Investigation of Bliss' story had just been begun when it was learned that Mrs. Charles D. Lane, who was mentioned by Bliss, had hurried from her home in this city to San Diego.

A citation was issued by the United States District Court, directing Mrs. Lane to appear before Judge Van Fleet Tuesday. The writ was forwarded to San Diego to be served on Mrs. Lane.

Before the issuance of the citation for Mrs. Lane, who is a friend of Mrs. Anthony Camenetti, Bliss was questioned. He stated that Mrs. Lane had called at his office, had told him she was a friend of Mrs. Anthony Caminetti, wife of the Commissioner-General of Immigration, had reminded him that he was a juror in the Diggs case and then had asked him if he "had a mine for sale."

Widow of Millionaire.

Mrs. Lane is said to be the widow of a mining millionaire, who contributed heavily to a State fund to boost William J. Bryan's first campaign for President.

Bliss said Mrs. Lane is an old friend of his and that he disliked to tell of such meeting with her.

"I simply beat them to it," Bliss said, referring to having made the announcement in open court. "My telephone and my office were being watched. They knew that Mrs. Lane had called on me as soon as the visit took place."

Bliss said Mrs. Lane had telephoned to him, and then had called at his office. First, she asked him how he stood with the papers, Bliss said. When he replied he was "all right," she said, according to Bliss:

"I understand that you are a juror in the Diggs case."

This was followed by the remark, Bliss said: "Mrs. Caminetti is staying with me, you know."

Then Mrs. Lane said, according to Bliss, that she wanted to buy a mine and understood that he had one to sell. At that, Bliss says, he told the woman that he could not talk to her further.

Caminetti Trial Tuesday.

F. Drew Caminetti, companion of Diggs, will be put on trial next Tuesday in the same courtroom in which Diggs was convicted, and attempt to prove that the elopement did not make him amenable to punishment for violation of the Mann act.

Special Prosecutor Theodore Roche announced today the counts of the indictment upon which the Government will attempt to convict Caminetti. They are four in number—that he transported or assisted in the transportation from one state to another of Lola Norris for immoral purposes; that he transported or assisted in transportation from one state to another of Marsha Warrington for an immoral purpose; that he induced and enticed Lola Norris to go to Reno for an immoral purpose and that he induced and enticed Marsha Warrington to go to Reno for immoral purposes.

MARLBOROUGH DUCHESS MISSES PAGE RECEPTION

Forgets Invitation Card and Can't Get in at Fourth of July Event.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—In Anglo-American circles in London a story is current that the Duchess of Marlborough was refused admission to Ambassador Page's Fourth of July reception at Claridge's because she went without her card of invitation.

It is asserted that, despite explanations and the fact that her identity must have been perfectly well known to the servants at Claridge's, she failed to gain admission, although as the result of her insistent requests one of the officials was called.

The story goes that she subsequently wrote to Ambassador Page, explaining that her desire to be present on the occasion of the American national celebration was frustrated by the fact of her having forgotten her card.

KILLED BY FALL WHEN SEEKING PLACE TO SLEEP

Man Identified as William Willhite, 65, Was in Building Under Construction.

The body of a man identified as William Willhite, who, up to six months ago, lived at Sixteenth and O'Fallon streets, was found in the basement of a building under construction at the southeast corner of Seventeenth and Morgan streets, Friday morning. His skull and neck were broken.

The body was lying at the bottom of a stairwell in the basement and it is believed Willhite fell from the first floor in the night while seeking a place to sleep.

He was found at 8 a. m. by John Uthoff, a plumber, who had known Willhite slightly. The latter was 65 years old.

Uthoff told the police he did not know the address of Willhite's family.

The distance of the fall was 10 feet.

BOY KILLED BY WHISKY BARREL EXPLOSION

CHARLES WILD.

BOY KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF A WHISKY BARREL

Flames Ignite Clothing, Destroy East St. Louis Saloon and Contents, Including $600.

A barrel of whisky exploded in Charles Wild's saloon, at 16 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, Thursday afternoon, scattering flames which ignited the clothing of the proprietor's son, Charles Jr., aged 3. Before the burning garments could be torn off the boy's body he was burned so severely that he died an hour later.

Mr. and Mrs. Wild were in the barroom when the barrel caught fire, presumably from a match carelessly thrown in its direction. The mother fainted when she saw her son carried out with his clothing ablaze.

The saloon and its contents were destroyed, together with $600 Wild had drawn from a bank a short time before to cash pay checks of packing house employes. Wild estimates his property loss at $3000.

SHOWMAN, ATTACKED, WOUNDS MAN WITH PICK

Picture Show Proprietor Mystified at Fight Which Began When Boy Struck Him.

Just what it was all about, Tom Buzanis, proprietor of a moving picture show at Grand and Cass avenues, says he cannot imagine. But as the show crowd was departing at 10:15 p. m. Thursday, a boy not more than 10 years old suddenly struck Buzanis on the head with a stick.

The showman reached for the boy, who struck him again on the hand. Before Busanis could seize the stick, several men attacked him. Busanis says there were 10 or more of them.

The men threw him down, struck and kicked him. He forced his way to the office, seized an ice pick and struck one of the men, wounding him in the abdomen. This man proved to be Ernest Borcher, 21 years old, of 3619 Cass avenue.

After the showman and Borcher had been taken to the city dispensary, and then to a police station, John Stapleton of 2200 Magazine street called at the station to ask about Borcher. Buzanis said Stapleton was one of his assailants, and the caller was detained. The other men and the boy were not found. Borcher's wound has serious possibilities, but he objected to going to the city hospital.

GLIDES 9000 FEET TO EARTH IN FOUR MINUTES

Aviator Wood Makes Spectacular Descent in the Dusk at Fort Myer Parade Ground.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Officers of the Army Signal Corps today are discussing the 9000-feet "slide" of Aviator C. Marvin Wood, who stopped his engine nearly two miles above the earth late yesterday and plunged down through the gathering dusk to a successful landing on the parade ground at Fort Myer, Va. His spectacular downward dash occupied only four minutes.

The officers were preparing to have beacon fires lighted to guide the aviator back to his landing place, when Wood began his spectacular glide. He had been aloft one hour and forty-five minutes and had sailed above the Virginia hills and far out into Maryland before he decided to come down in his monoplane. Wood is demonstrating his monoplane for the army officials. The military air craft at present are all biplanes.

LEAD MINE STRIKE AGREEMENT HANGS FIRE OVER WAGES

Union Men Also Insist on Modified Form of Recognition by Operators.

FARMINGTON, Mo., Aug. 22.—After a settlement of the strike of 6000 lead miners of this district apparently was about to be effected yesterday afternoon, Executive Board Member Davidson of the Western Federation of Miners, representing the strikers in the conferences with the State Mediation Board and the operators, brought in a stipulation that all future difficulties be taken up by the companies with the Executive Committee of the miners' union.

The operators immediately objected to this, contending that it was virtual recognition of the union. General Manager Meier of the St. Louis Smelting and Refining Co., in a speech before the secret conference, announced that his company would never consent to such a stipulation. This phase of the matter was then passed over and the wage settlement taken up.

The companies offered a straight raise of 25 cents per day and the men reduced their demands from 50 cents to 40 cents. This was the situation when the conferences were resumed this morning.

The board this afternoon submitted a final proposition to miners and operators. Its terms are secret.

The companies agreed this morning that they would, in the future deal with committees representing their own employes, but not with a general committee representing the union. The men refused these terms.

Operators and miners will be expected to report on the board's final recommendations tomorrow morning.

FINDS FATHER MOURNED AS DEAD 50 YEARS

Applying for Pension, Daughter Learns He Is Alive and Receiving One.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Capt. Lewis B. Hunt, who fought in the Civil War, sent word to his family in Buffalo, April 6, 1863, that he had been honorably discharged and that on the next day he would start for home. A few days later his uniform reached his family, but he did not appear. Months later word came from the South that he had been killed. Mrs. Hunt remarried later and a few years ago died. The Captain's daughter became Mrs. Miller French. She made her home at Matskanie, Ore.

A short time ago a woman friend told Mrs. French she had applied for a pension, and suggested that Mrs. French do the same. She did so and to her amazement learned that her father was alive and was receiving a pension from the Government. His home was in Tarrytown.

Mrs. French hastened there a few days ago and found him, still hale, at the age of 84. He agreed to make his home in the future with his daughter in Oregon.

WIRELESS MAN SAVES AID, IS KILLED AT POST

Steamer Operator Sends Assistant to Safety, Then Is Crushed by Falling Mast.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 22.—Another story of wireless telegraphy was told here early today when 40 surviving members of the wrecked steamship State of California arrived here on the steamer Jefferson.

Donald C. Perkins of Oakland, Cal., who went as chief wireless operator on the State of California in hope of encountering adventure, was off duty and asleep when the steamer struck an uncharted reef in Gambier Bay, Alaska, last Sunday morning. Awakened by the shock, he rushed to the wireless room and ordered Walter Chamberlain, the operator on duty, to seek safety. Then he sat down at the key, but before he could send his first call for help a failing mast went through the wireless house and crushed Perkins to death at his post.

Of the three lifeboats launched, the survivors said one was useless, having been smashed by falling wreckage and one was carried down by the suction of the boat.

ST. LOUIS LOOKS BETTER THAN EVER, DR. LICHLITER SAYS

Former Resident, Now of Baltimore, Deeply Impressed by Civic Societies' Work.

LESS VICE HERE, HE SAYS

In Matter of Schools St. Louis Has Attained What Other Cities Are Striving For.

St. Louis looks better than it ever before did to the Rev. M. H. Lichliter, who was a midsummer visitor here for three days this week. He removed to Baltimore last winter, after his oratorical ability and his radical utterances had made him the most quoted, if not the most noted, of St. Louis clergymen.

At Union Station Thursday, before leaving to fill a lecture engagement in Indiana, Dr. Lichliter told a Post-Dispatch reporter of the good things of St. Louis which, he said, he appreciated more since he had had a chance to compare this city with other cities.

"The thing which has impressed me most," he said, "has been the practical unifying of civic organizations through the Civic League and the City Club. Anyone who says St. Louis is behind in the matter of civic organization is misinformed.

"Secretary Baldwin of the Civic League is a man to whom anyone can go to get definite and exact information about any matter relating to civic or sociological conditions here. Dean Davis of Christ Church Cathedral is another factor of high efficiency in the civic life, which centers around the league and the City Club. I do not know of such an efficient civic center in any other city. In Baltimore we have civic agencies, but they are not correlated or unified as the one here.

School System Praised.

"The other advantage which St. Louis has over almost all other American cities is in its school system. What other cities are striving for, this city has attained. In school buildings, St. Louis is ahead of any other city I have visited except perhaps New York, and in organization and method it is at the front.

"It may be that Baltimore and other Eastern cities are not so efficiently organized in civic ways, because of a feeling of completeness, and therefore of complacency, which Western cities have not acquired. From my point of view, I have noticed particularly that the churches and ministers are not brought into civic movements in Eastern cities so much as they are in St. Louis. There seems to be a feeling there that the church moves in a rather restricted field, and that work of a public character is for laymen.

"As I am still a newcomer in Baltimore, I have naturally been busy in getting acquainted in my own parish, and have not had occasion to concern myself actively with public movements. A newcomer is not expected to concern himself with public affairs in Baltimore, anyway. I do not think I have mentioned the name of Baltimore in a sermon yet—certainly I have not preached about any phase of local affairs. Nor do I expect to for some time to come.

"I was much interested while I lived in St. Louis in the work of the Joint Committee on Public Morals, of which I was chairman. It was one of my regrets, in leaving the city, that the committee had not been at work long enough to carry through a constructive program for the control and repression of vice in St. Louis.

Less Vice Than Other Big Cities.

"The committee's work did go far enough to show that St. Louis is not worse, in this respect, than other cities; that, in fact, the commercialized vice is less in amount than in other large cities. The end toward which the committee was working was the informal segregation of vice, with a Public Morals Commission and a special branch of the Police Department to handle matters pertaining to public morals. A policy of continually wider repression was also aimed at.

"The appointment of policewomen would have been a part of this plan. Chicago has just begun experimenting with policewomen, but they have proven a success in Baltimore. Perhaps they have been most useful in looking after the moving picture shows and checking some of the evil possibilities which attend the free meeting of young men and women in the shows.

"I have been told in the last two days that vice repression in St. Louis had relaxed somewhat since last winter. For instance, I was told that music is generally permitted in the segregated district, and that men are accosted freely on the sidewalks. If this is true, it shows the need of a Public Morals Commission to keep the movement against vice from retrograding in this fashion."

Dr. Lichliter mentioned St. Louis car service as a feature of life here which shines by comparison with the service of some Eastern cities. He included in this comparison not only Baltimore, but what he termed "Baltimore's most attractive suburb," namely, Washington.

In one respect, the former St. Louis minister has found his new place more congenial than the old.

"The Eastern people," he remarked, "have mastered the art of disagreeing in an agreeable way. If I say something in the pulpit that someone else doesn't like, he will very likely tell me so, but he will be pleasant about it, and will say what he has to say to me, rather than to others. That is a little refinement of Eastern life that it would benefit St. Louis to acquire."

Dr. Lichliter's old parishioners at the Maple Avenue Methodist Church waited at the church two hours Wednesday night, in the hope of hearing an address from him. He had spent the day at a fish fry in Macoupin County, Ill., and returned on a train due at Union Station at 6:25 p. m. It got in at 9:30, too late for him to keep his engagement.

PLAIN MAN'S DEATH DISCLOSES HE WAS A MILLIONAIRE

Villager Who Began Work on Steamboat Leaves Over $2,500,000 Estate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Old Greenwich village learned today to its surprise that Timothy J. Kieley for 40 years known to the villagers as "Plain Tim," was a millionaire.

His will was offered for probate this morning, and John J. Donovan, the lawyer who drew it up, says it will be shown "Plain Tim's" holdings amount to $2,500,000 and perhaps $3,000,000.

The entire fortune, both in real and personal property, is to go to the widow, Mrs. Margaret O'Conner Kieley. Donovan and Frederick T. Mueller, "Plain Tim's" partner in a steam fitting business, are the executors.

That Kieley "had money" was generally known, but not even his wife, it is said, had the remotest idea he was a millionaire.

How Kieley amassed his fortune reads like a romance.

"He came to this country," said Donovan, "from County Cork, Ireland, at the age of 14. For a long time he worked on steamboats, plying between here and South American points. He had a natural turn for inventing. He eventually became an engineer and invented numerous devices that laid the foundation of his fortune."

Mrs. Smith's father, Martin Lammert, founder of the furniture company, died a year ago, and her mother died about two months ago.

BANKERS MEET TO OPPOSE PARTS OF THE CURRENCY BILL

Hope to Agree, in Chicago Conference, on Recommendations for Amendments.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—More than two hundred bankers, delegates from clearing house and banking associations, assembled here today to voice their objections to certain sections of the Glass-Owen currency bill, now before Congress, and make suggestions for a law which they hope will bring about an improvement in the banking system of the country.

The conference was called by the Currency Commission of the American Bankers Association. Its purpose, as explained by Frederick E. Farnsworth of New York, secretary of the organization, is to aid the administration in "effecting good currency legislation."

Four Features Opposed.

Arrangements were made for three sessions today, and it is the hope of members of the commission that by tomorrow night recommendations for amendments to the Glass-Owen measure will have been agreed upon which will make it satisfactory to a great majority of the financiers of the country.

"There are four fundamental features of the bill to which the bankers of the country are almost unanimously opposed," said Farnsworth. "They are the Government control provision, the reserve feature, the portion referring to note issue by the Government and the stipulation for the refunding of the 2 per cent bonds.

Address by A. B. Hepburn.

"The ideas of the association bankers on these points are well known, and it is probable that their action will take the form of resolutions protesting against the objectionable features and suggesting amendments."

A. Barton Hepburn of New York, chairman of the Currency Commission, led a general discussion of the bill, in which he upheld certain sections and criticised others.

The failure to fully develop the central bank idea, which, he said, was recognized, and its consequent effect on any of the provisions of the bill, was the criticism of greatest emphasis.

The establishment of 12 banks instead of one, for the purpose of bringing together the money resources of the country, had made it necessary, in order to make these reserves effective, to provide a central board with powers greater than would be necessary for one central bank to possess.

MAN DROWNED IN MERAMEC WHEN CANOE CAPSIZES

G. C. Spivy of Little Rock Unable to Swim When Waves From Barge Cause Accident.

George C. Spivy, 26 years old, of Little Rock, Ark., was drowned Thursday afternoon in the Meramec River, near Valley Park, when the canoe occupied by him and his brother, Dr. Raymond M. Spivy, of 5364 Plymouth avenue, was capsized by waves from a passing barge. His body was recovered in 15 minutes and friends worked two hours trying to revive him.

Spivy until recently was secretary of the Commercial Warehouse Co. of Little Rock. He and his sister, Mrs. John Van Lears, and her husband, the Rev. John Van Lear, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Little Rock, were visiting Dr. Spivy and the party went to the Meramec for an outing.

While the two men were watching bathers from the canoe a barge passed and the canoe was struck broadside by the waves. Spivy could not swim and did not come to the surface after he went down. Dr. Spivy tried to reach him and was almost exhausted when rescued by bathers.

The Rev. Mr. Van Lear and his wife will accompany the body back to Little Rock, where the funeral will take place.

TOWERMAN'S QUICK ACTION PREVENTS HEAD-ON COLLISION

Throws Express Train Into River Giving Way to Passenger Train Carrying 350.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The quick decision of Clarence Wise, a railway towerman at the Calumet River bridge, near Hammond, Ind., probably saved the lives of many of 350 men and women on their way from Chicago to New York and other eastern points yesterday. Wise averted a head-on collision between a passenger train and an express train by throwing a switch which threw the express train down an embankment into the river.

At the Calumet River the Erie and Nickel Plate use the same bridge. The Nickel Plate train, known as New York, Chicago and St. Louis No. 1, due at Hammond at 4:35, was whirling along at 35 miles an hour. Coming in the opposite direction, but behind time, was the Wells-Fargo express train on the Erie.

When the Nickel Plate train was in the middle of the bridge Wise saw the Erie express suddenly appear from behind a curve and bear down upon it.

He threw the switch, causing the train to go down a steep embankment and wrecking the engine.

The engineer of the express, Henry Palmer, jumped as the train left the rails. He landed in front of the Nickel Plate train, but managed to roll off the track in time to save his life. J. B. Hoffman, Erie fireman, jumped and also was uninjured.

THREE STATES BID HAPPY FAREWELL TO HOT WEATHER

Hard Rains in Kansas Bring Drop in Temperature From 10 to 20 Degrees.

After nearly a month of high temperatures in Kansas and parts of Missouri and Oklahoma, breaking all records for intensity and duration, burning up corn and other late crops and producing desperate drouth conditions in many sections, the heat wave throughout the three states was broken today, according to reports to the United States Weather Bureau here. With a drop of 10 to 20 degrees in temperatures came heavy rains over wide sections and further precipitation was forecast.

Rain and Hail Storm at Joplin; Thermometer Registers 68.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 22.—The lowest temperature here in two months was recorded today when the mercury registered 68 degrees following a hail and rain storm. As great a drop was registered at St. Joseph.

Fall of 20 Degrees in Temperature at Topeka, Kan.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 22.—The weather bureau here today reported a temperature 20 degrees below the average of the last 19 days, following scattered showers in Central Kansas.

Kansas City Temperature 75, Fall of 16 Degrees.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—At 11 o'clock the temperature here was 75, or 16 degrees below that of yesterday.

Wind Nearly Blows Outdoor Sleepers at Wichita Off Cots.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 22.—The thermometer here registered a fall of eight degrees today, with showers and cool winds relieving East Central Kansas. Outdoor sleepers at dawn were almost blown from their cots and driven to cover by wind. Showers were light, but heavier precipitation was in prospect and a general laxity of business activities, due to a month of heat and drouth, at once showed activity.

Drizzling Rain at Hutchinson; Drouth Ravages at End.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Aug. 22.—Hutchinson was in a drizzle of rain today that covered a wide territory. General reports showed drouth ravages apparently at an end.

WOMEN TO USE CHARMS OF MUSIC TO GAIN BALLOT

Missouri Suffrage Band to Play at Fairs to "Soothe Savage Breast" of Man.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—Music, not militancy, is to be used by Missouri women in their campaign for the ballot, according to Mrs. E. R. Curry, a local suffragist leader, who, with a group of her co-workers, today met and welcomed the Missouri Suffrage Band of Maryville, Mo., as it passed through here on a tour of Central Missouri.

The attempt to "soothe the savage breast" of man, and charm him through music into granting the ballot to women, will be conducted through a tour of country fairs. The band went from here to play five days at a fair in Higginsville.

The band, led by Miss Alma Nash of Maryville, is composed entirely of women. It was among the musical organizations that led the suffrage parade in Washington, D. C., last spring.

STUDEBAKER HEIR TO WED ST. LOUIS ACTRESS SEPT. 15

E. S. Riley and Miss Jessie Carter Met When She Was Playing in South Bend.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Carter, daughter of Mme. Christine Nordstrom Carter of 3730 West Pine boulevard, and Ewing Studebaker Riley, grandson of Peter Studebaker and son of the auditor of the Studebaker Corporation, will take place at the Buckingham Hotel Sept. 15.

The attendants will be the bride's sister, Miss Louise Morton Carter, her two cousins, Misses Louise and Maybelle Carter; the bridegroom's brother, Franklin S. Riley, and John F. Reynolds and Lawson Midgley of South Bend. The Rev. Z. B. T. Phillips of St. Peter's Church, will perform the ceremony. Charles Kunkel, E. R. Kroeger and Charles Kalb will furnish music.

Riley's acquaintance with Miss Carter began soon after she became the star of the Auditorium Theater stock company in South Bend last fall. She had previously appeared with Louis Mann's company.

The young man was assiduous in his attendance at the theater, in which his family had a financial interest, and his acquaintance with the star led to the announcement, last December, of their engagement. Miss Carter insisted on finishing the season, which ended in May, and then set the date for the wedding.

Riley and his bride, after a honeymoon tour, will live in Independence, Kan., where he has oil interests.

GIRL, PRAYING TO DIE WITH FIANCE, EXPIRES

Wound He Inflicted Before Ending His Own Life With a Pistol, Proves Fatal.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Ruth Hamilton died today in answer to her prayers. Brief periods of lucidness during the night, which alternated with long lapses into unconsciousness, were spent by the girl in praying that she might join her boy fiance, Charles Rich, who shot and killed himself after mortally wounding her Wednesday night. They had been sweethearts a few months and had agreed to die together.

"Why didn't he shoot me right? I want to be buried with him," she moaned, unheeding the tears of her mother and sister at her bedside. They were holding her hands when she died.

25 Carloads of Horseshoes for U. S.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 22.—It became known today here that during the last 10 days a horseshoe factory at Cleves, O., has filled an order for the United States Government for 25 carloads of horseshoes. The order weighed more than 1,000,000 pounds, and is an exceptionally large one, even for the Government.

GIRL, 16, WHO TRIED TO ELOPE, SPANKED ON FATHER'S KNEE

Miss Josephine Wassmer Has Taste of Parental Wrath on Her Return Home.

When Mrs. Anna Wassmer of 613 Hickory street saw a wedding cake in the home of Mrs. Fannie Barth of 2300 Barton street, she discovered that her 16-year-old daughter, Josephine Wassmer, whom she had shadowed from home, was preparing to elope with William Withers, 19 years old, of 1911 South Jefferson avenue.

Having seen her daughter enter the Barth home, Mrs. Wassmer demanded that the girl be surrendered to her, but was told by Mrs. Barth that Josephine was not there. After upbraiding Mrs. Barth for what she termed "acting as matchmaker for babies," Mrs. Wassmer went to the Withers home and told her suspicions.

Their Plans Were Foiled.

But Mrs. Withers had already heard the news, having been told of the couple's plan by a daughter who overheard them discussing their proposed elopement, and she had taken the precaution to telephone the various Gretna Greens and head off the issuance of a license.

The result was that William Withers and Josephine Wassmer sought a marriage license in vain in East St. Louis, Clayton and St. Charles.

When the couple appeared at the Wassmer home Thursday evening, Miss Wassmer wore an embroidered dress which she said was a gift from Mrs. Barth for her trousseau. She was ordered to take the dress off and later her father, Alfred Wassmer, placed her across his knee and spanked her with the heel of his slipper, right in the presence of Withers.

Sweethearts Two Weeks.

Withers and Miss Wassmer had been sweethearts two weeks, and Thursday morning, instead of going to work in the canning factory where both are employed, they slipped away to the home of Mrs. Barth, who had volunteered to help when they told her they feared to take their parents into their confidence.

JAPANESE STEAMER LINE THROUGH CANAL UNLIKELY

Government Is Backward About Subsidies and Shippers Won't Act Alone.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 22.—There is little likelihood that a Japanese steamship line will be operated between Yokohama and New York upon the opening of navigation through the Panama Canal, according to officers of the steamship Mexico Maru, which arrived here from Japan yesterday.

A combination had been proposed, under which the great Japanese steamship lines, the Osaka, Shoshen, Kaisha Nippon Yusen Kaisha and Toyo Kisen Kiasha would form a joint line direct to New York via the canal, but the Japanese Government has been backward about granting the desired subsidies and Japanese shipping men believe the companies will not make the venture without Government aid.

HIRED WATSON TO WORK FOR TARIFF BOARD BILL

Wisconsin Man Testifies in Senate, Confirms Part of Mulhall Testimony.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Herbert E Miles of Racine, Wis., testified before the Senate Lobby Committee today that acting for the tariff commission association, he employed former Representative James E. Watson at a salary of $250 a week to work for a tariff board bill in Congress in 1909.

He confirmed Martin E. Mulhall's testimony that Mulhall adavanced the first $500 paid to Watson, who was not then a member of the House.

Miles denied that the National Association of Manufacturers sought to elect or defeat candidates for office.

WILL GO TO JAIL BEFORE HE'LL WHIP WIFE BEATER

Sheriff Also Says He'll Resign Rather Than Apply Lash on Court Sentence.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Aug. 22.—Sheriff Charles Low was given the alternative of applying 15 lashes to the back of William Pew, a convicted wife-beater, or being punished by Justice E. W. Gowan for contempt of court. The Sheriff said he would go to jail rather than carry out the sentence of the Court and if that were not enough he would resign his office.

Pew's conviction is one of the first under the Oregon whipping-post law. He was sentenced to receive 15 lashes, but because of the Sheriff's refusal to do the whipping, the punishment has been delayed.

Accuses Neighbors of Having Induced Foster-Daughter to Prefer Charge Against Him.

Dr. Duncanson was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary at San Quentin. He served three months before the girl repudiated her testimony. He was promptly pardoned.

PROP OF FAMOUS MARCHAND CAFE

of San Francisco Has Tested the Equally Famous Plant Juice and Is Pleased.

Among the many prominent and influential citizens of San Francisco who have testified to the merits of Plant Juice there is no one that we take more pleasure and pride in publishing than the following statement from Mr. E. J. Marchand of 725 Geary street, San Francisco. Mr Marchand was born there and his father opened the first restaurant in that city in the early fifties. Eddie Marchand was one of the proprietors of the famous Marchand Restaurant that had a reputation all over the world. Mr. Marchand numbers among his friends and admirers the most celebrated musicians, authors, artists and singers of this country and Europe. At the time of the great calamity that destroyed the city, Mr. Marchand lost in the fire many signatures and souvenirs of famous people from all over the world who had visited his restaurant. These are the things that are beyond price and that money can never replace. Mr. Marchand says about Plant Juice:

"I have been a sufferer with stomach, liver and kidney trouble for years and although I tried a great many remedies I did not succeed in getting much relief. I saw the advertisements of Plant Juice in the papers and decided to try it. Up to the present writing it has been of the greatest benefit to me and I feel like a new man. You are at liberty to publish this if you think it will be of any benefit to other sufferers.

"E. J. MARCHAND."

As a tonic, vitalizer and builder, Plant Juice has no equal. It clears the blood, cleanses the liver and tones up the entire system. If you have indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, a feeling of weight after eating, pains across the back, in the joints, or under the shoulder blades, foul breath, sleep poorly, have bad dreams, wake tired in the mornings, bad taste, coated tongue, torpid liver, constipation, try Plant Juice. The Plant Juice man is at the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. store, Sixth st. and Washington av.

GIRL FALLS, SWALLOWS PIN

X-Ray Search to Be Made at City Hospital.

Effie Thomas, 15 years old, of 1003 South Sixth street, swallowed a pin Thursday night when helping her mother, Mrs. Mary Alice Greb, take down lace curtains. She had several pins in her mouth and, in descending a ladder, she made a misstep and fell. One of the pins slipped down her throat.

Physicians at the city hospital have decided on an X-ray examination. It is possible an operation may have to be performed to extract the pin.

PROHIBITS EMIGRATION

Galicia Governor Stops Subjects From Going to U. S.

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 22.—The Governor of Galicia, a crown land of Austria-Hungary, has determined to stop the emigration of adults from his country to the United States and Canada.

Today he ordered the police to arrest all male persons between the ages of 18 and 36, and liable for military service, who attempt to leave the country and to send them to their homes.

HORSE SAVED FOR CODY

Friends Vie in Bidding for Steed to Give It to Owner.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 22.—At the Sheriff's sale of Buffalo Bill's circus, now in progress, the white horse, Isham, ridden by Col. Cody at every performance for 25 years, was bid in at $150 by Col. C. J. Bills of Lincoln, Neb., who will present the animal to Col. Cody. Friends of the veteran scout outbid each other in their endeavor to retain the horse for its old owner.

Carlo Miles, a full-blooded Indian, opposed the crowd in bidding, and wept when he believed his purpose to rival the generosity of others was defeated.

ROAD ENTHUSIASTS CONTINUE WORK ON STATE'S HIGHWAYS

Volunteers in Number of Counties Will Finish Jobs Begun in Two-Day Campaign.

By Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—The good roads spirit in Missouri has been so thoroughly aroused that many of the volunteer workers who enlisted under Gov. Major's banner in the two days' battle for better highways will keep up the campaign for several days longer.

In Jackson County the volunteers asked that they be allowed to use the tools and machinery contributed for the road work until they can complete all the work they set out to do. The request was granted.

Gov. Major said today that similar requests had come from other counties and that well organized road gangs in various parts of the State would continue indefinitely at the work of improving the roads.

Gov. Hodges' Major's Guest.

Gov. Major and Mrs. Major were accompanied yesterday by Gov. Hodges of Kansas and Mrs. Hodges on the trip of inspection over the roads to Fulton, Columbia and Ashland. Other Missouri State officials were in the party. They returned to Jefferson City last night.

At Columbia the men of the Governors' party changed their road shirts for white linen and were entertained by the Commercial Club.

Both Gov. Major and Gov. Hodges declared the barrier between Missouri and Kansas had been broken down by the state-wide improvement of roads and that henceforth the two states would work side by side in developing their resources.

Movies' an Ad for State.

Moving pictures taken of the Governors' party and other road workers will be used by the State Highway and Immigration Departments in advertising the State.

Platte County Claims Banner for Good Roads Work.

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—Platte County claims the banner for good road work Aug. 20 and 21, in proportion to population. On the first day there were 1600 men at work and 2300 on the second. Most of those men worked with picks, shovels, crowbars and dynamite. It is estimated that 216 miles of road were worked the first day. The men were under charge of 42 road overseers and 225 captains.

County officials and a number of prisoners were among the workers.

Col. Stevens of the United States military prison at Leavenworth came over with a large number of men and worked 10 miles of road in Platte County.

A conservative estimate of the cost of work done in the two days in Platte County is $27,000.

U. S. JOBS BEGGING, APPLICANTS SOUGHT TO TRY FOR THEM

Among Vacant Places Announced by Civil Service Board Is One Paying $4500.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Jobs under the Government are going begging and the Civil Service Commission today issued announcements of examinations to be held for a number of positions. Almost every announcement bore this statement in black-faced letters:

"As the commission has experienced considerable difficulty in securing a sufficient number of eligibles for this position, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination."

Among the positions which the commission seeks to fill is that of preparatory in the Bureau of Entomology in the Department of Agriculture. The position will pay the successful candidate $60 a month. The examination consists only of passing in spelling, arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship, copying and demonstrating general aptitude for the job through "practical tests in preparing, mounting and labeling entonomical specimens."

The real prize position pays $4500 a year. It is the position of professor of pharmacology in the public health service.

RHEUMATIC PAINS PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Relief Comes After Taking Few Doses of Croxone

It is needless to suffer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and the only way to overcome it is to remove the cause.

Croxone does this because it neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter the poison from the blood, and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is a truly remarkable medicine for rheumatism, kidney troubles and bladder disorders. You will find it differs from other remedies. There is nothing else just like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it without results. Relief follows the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to overcome the worst backache.—ADVERTISEMENT.

BOY 'MONKEY' AND ORGAN GRINDER ON STREETS FOR FUND

Seven-Year-Old Channing Smith and Ralph Judd Devise Big Novelty to Save Babies.

HAVE LOTS OF FUN, TOO

They Earn $4.50 for the Tenement Tots With Their Original Act—Other Benefits.

Channing Smith of 3516 Victor street, as an organ-grinder's monkey, and his tried and true chum, Ralph Judd, as the organ-grinder, must be credited with having devised and successfully performed the quaintest and most original street-feature act yet presented for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund to save the babies.

They are fun-loving little lads, both aged 7, and it seemed to them that this humorous method of raising money for the tenement tots would be well worth while, alike for the good of the babies and the high diversion of themselves and the general public. Wherefore they put it into execution with commendable thoroughness.

They obtained a typical street-organ, from whose insides could be ground out many familiar tunes, and Channing Smith "made up" as the most excruciatingly comic monkey you ever saw in your life, while Ralph Judd impersonated a delightful character-type organ-grinder.

Channing Smith wore the regulation "monkey costume"—red cap, red coat and blue trousers—and perfected himself in all the necessary "monkey-shines" in the way of antics peculiar to that best of all natural "low comedians" of the animal creation.

Thus fully equipped and "up in their parts" they sallied forth on the streets in the neighborhood, Ralph Judd halting frequently to grind all sorts of music from the organ and Channing Smith, as the monkey, zealously collecting pennies in his little red cap, passed around among the auditors of their performance.

They created a perfect furore among the children, and, it might just as well be confessed, among the grown folks, as well. So popular did they become, indeed, that their penny collections amounted to $4.50, all for the tenement babies, as the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund sign which surmounted the organ eloquently testified.

And now these two 7-year-oldsters, or youngsters, are resting on their laurels well content with the distinction of having provided the greatest Pure Milk Fund novelty of the season.

For the second time this summer a group of girls headed by Norma Deggendorf, of 6229 Ella avenue, gave a lawn party at Norma's home and earned $11 for the Pure Milk Fund to save the babies. Those taking part were Norma Deggendorf, Hilda Griese, Aetna Lynch, Delphine Lynch, Lola Ackerman, Emily Madden, Pansy Williams and Matilda Davisee. They conducted a "fish pond" as one feature of their lawn party, and also sold ice cream, lemonade, candy and peanuts.

They wish now to return thanks to all who donated toward their helpful enterprise, especially to the Schwartz Bakery Co., Larmore, Bowman & Carpenter Ice Cream Co., Wright Ice Cream Co., Mr. Monroe, dry goods; Mr. Miller, dry goods, and to all the neighbors who aided them and attended their party.

"A Friend of the Babies" generously contributes $40 to the Pure Milk Fund.

A little play entitled "The Female Academy" was presented by Carondelet children on Tuesday evening of last week for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund, realizing a total of $2.50 with which to help save the tenement babies.

Those who took part in the play were Julia Murray, Alice Walker, Helen Wildemuth, Marian Walker, Hattie Walker, Marie Murray, Margaret de Laughter, Alice Wildemuth and Master August Wildemuth. Inspired by the success of their first effort, these children now are planning another entertainment on a larger scale.

A number of clever Canaan avenue children gave a pleasing entertainment in the basement of the residence of Mrs. J. Finkelstein, 960 Canaan avenue, and earned $5.63 for the tenement tots.

The program was: Opening address, by Jacob Ornenstein of 949 Canaan avenue; card-trick act, Samuel Casriel, 971 Canaan; song, Fannie Ornenstein, 949 Canaan; a play entitled "The Merchant's Loss," telling the story of a startling robbery and well played by Jacob Ornenstein, Simon Cohen of 884 Canaan avenue; Morris and Samuel Casriel; song, Fannie Ornenstein; card-trick act, Jacob Ornenstein; "The Magic Singing Machine," wherein Jacob Ornenstein, under a barrel with a megaphone, vastly mystified his audience; song, Fannie Ornenstein; closing address, Morris Casriel, and address of thanks, Jacob Ornenstein.

Four little girls and one boy sold lemonade and candy in front of the residence of Mrs. O. H. Roberts, 4516 Wichita avenue, for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund and earned $4 with which to help save the tenement babies.

Their names are Margaret Maher, Louise Roberts, Stephen Thomas, Gertrude Folz and Irene Vogel. They had a pretty refreshment stand, with a very important looking desk and cash register, and their sign—of their own brave devising—read: "Benefite of the Pure Food and Milk for the Baby."

Florence McInroy of 906 Bayard avenue and Ruth Hayman of 4725 McMillan avenue disposed of a doll and a toy poodle and realized $10.10 for the Pure Milk Fund.

The doll became the property of Billy Dutson—a boy, bless us and save us!—of 4556 Branconier place, and the toy poodle became the property of Warren Murphy—to arms, suffragettes! another boy!—of 4344 Fountain avenue.

Norma Hazzard, Regina Levy, Elizabeth Engelbach, Charles Levy and David Walker, conducted a lemonade stand and earned $2.50 for the Pure Milk Fund to save the babies.

For the kindly donations that helped them to score this pleasing success they wish to return thanks to the Joseph Lindenschmidt Grocery Co., H. Reuter Drug Co., Merchants' Ice Co., and Henry Lindenschmidt. And if the three little girls and two boys now will send their residence addresses to the Post-Dispatch, their league membership cards will be mailed to them.

Florence Singer of 1706 Carr street and Amelia Rosenkrantz of 1011 North Seventeenth street, conducted a lemonade stand for two days in front of Amelia's home, charging a penny a glass, and earned $1.80 with which to help save the tenement babies.

Ella Rutledge of 4050 Labadie avenue, disposed of a children's miniature ironing set for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund and realized $5 for the saving of the tenement tots.

Recovered From Severe Lung Trouble

Plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble, but something more is needed to bring about full health. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for throat and lung troubles, and so many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in a number of cases which were declared hopeless, that all sufferers who are not benefiting otherwise should at least investigate what it has done for others. Investigate this case:

Madison Lake, Minn.

"Gentlemen: In December, 1908, March, 1909, and September, 1909, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs, which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West.

"In November I started for Denver, Colo. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who, upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alterative. In about two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1910, I returned home. I think I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 130 pounds. I now weigh 165, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alterative for my health."

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Rabeteau Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co. and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

ILLINOIS SOCIETY WOMAN ACCUSED AS A SMUGGLER

Mrs. W. M. Velie of Moline Released Under Parole to Appear at Hearing Later.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Mrs. William L. Velie of Moline, Ill., was formally accused of smuggling today and released under parole. Her 14 trunks of wearing apparel, believed to be worth $10,000, were confiscated by custom officials. Mrs. Velie is the wife of the president of the Velie Motor Co. of Moline.

Accompanied by her daughter, Marjorie, and a traveling companion, whom the Federal officials call Miss M. J. Lillie, the Illinois woman arrived here on the Kaiser Wilhelm on Tuesday.

In her formal declaration on shipboard Mrs. Velie mentioned only $245 in dutiable goods, her declaration covering the belongings of her daughter and companion.

The trunks were inspected and held and yesterday Mrs. Velie and her companion were summoned to the custom house. She appeared there arrayed in a white flannel suit and white hat. For an hour she was under examination by Gen. Nelson H. Henry, Surveyor of the Port. It was not until her later arraignment before United States Commissioner Stanton in Hoboken that the facts in the case became public.

When she appeared before the Commissioner she was represented by John C. Spooner, former United States Senator from Wisconsin, and by Henry Jenna. The charge against her had been sworn to by Deputy Surveyor E. R. Norwood. Through her attorneys Mrs. Velie pleaded not guilty. She was paroled in their custody to appear on Monday.

MOLINE, Ill., Aug. 22.—Mrs. William L. Velie, accused of smuggling at New York port, is well known in social circles. Besides running a big automobile company, her husband heads the Executive Committee controlling the John Deere interests.

Mrs. Velie's recent tour of Europe was taken to obtain sculpture and paintings for an Italian villa, which is one of the most attractive structures in the Middle West. A great reception is planned for the villa's opening.

Nobel-Moder Shoe Co. Opens Branch for Men.

The Nobel-Moder Shoe Co., that has for so many years been known to families in the neighborhood of 1200 South Broadway, in order to keep pace with the growth of its business, will on Monday open a branch store in the heart of the St. Louis business zone—204 North Eighth street. The new store will be devoted exclusively to the sale of the highest class footwear for men, prices ranging from $4 up.

F. J. Nobel started in the shoe business at $5 a week, when he was 15 years old. At the age of 29 he bought out his employer, A. H. Kollas, at 1258 South Broadway. In 1905 he bought out M. Bogard, at 1226 South Broadway, and formed a partnership with Charles A. Moder, who, up to then, had been in the wholesale shoe business. Both Nobel and Moder have practically spent all their lives in the shoe business. They handle only shoes made for men by the Smith-Briscoe Co. of Lynchburg, Va., and Thompson Bros. of Brockton, Mass.

STUBBORN MOTORMAN BLOCKADES CROSSING

Each Refuses to Clear Way for Other Until Belated Passengers Protest.

Two stubborn motormen, neither of them willing to yield a disputed passage to the other, held the fronts of a Tower Grove and a Hodiamont car a few inches apart, at Sixth and Locust streets for 10 minutes Friday morning, while a blockade line of cars formed on both streets, tying up four or five lines and delaying hundreds of persons in getting to their work.

The Hodiamont car was about to turn south of Sixth street when the Tower Grove car made for the split switch. Both motormen stopped just in time to avoid a sideswiping collision, and each demanded that the other back. Each refused to yield, but after a number of passengers had reminded them what their employers would be likely to think of such tactics, the Tower Grove man backed, and the Hodiamont car shot ahead, ending the tie-up.

The body of a man who died in Carr Park at 3 a. m. Friday, awaits identification at the morgue. The body was found on a walk, in the park, near the Fifteenth street entrance, by Tom Witherington and Joseph Higgins, who have been sleeping in the park. They notified Patrolman Hanson.

They saw the man get up from a bench, walk a few steps and fall. The body was taken to the morgue. It is that of a man 30 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weight about 190 pounds, with gray eyes, dark brown hair, slightly bald, and short mustache. He wore a hat size 7¼, light in color, salt and pepper trousers, white and black checked shirt, and low cut black shoes.

A Constant Demand

A demand always exists for neat, comfortable, well-kept rooms, both in private families and rooming houses.

There is profit in supplying this demand, when rooms can be kept filled.

Post-Dispatch Wants are finding such tenants satisfactorily for most St. Louisans—printing more Room and Board Wants than appear in three of its four competitors combined.

PUSH PERMANENT ROAD WORK.

The enthusiasm with which the two-day voluntary road-mending suggestion was adopted showed that the crusade for good roads has met public approval. But the effects of the two-day effort will speedily be wiped out unless it is followed by continuous constructive work, properly financed and carried out by qualified men.

The report of the State Highway Engineer shows that Missouri has approximately 110,000 miles of public wagon roads, 90,000 culverts and 16,000 bridges. During the last few years the expenditure upon these roads, culverts and bridges has been about $3,000,000 a year, through 4000 road overseers. This looks like a large amount in the aggregate, but, divided up, it means only a trifle over $27 a mile for the 110,000 miles. Of course, the cost of the bridges and culverts will bring down the actual expenditure per mile on the roads themselves to a ridiculous figure.

It costs from $2000 to $5000 a mile to build a rock road. From this it is evident that, unless the people are willing to spend more money on the roads in general, we shall never have an effective system. We shall have to be content with a few good highways and dirt roads for the remainder. Special road districts and road bonds to finance the work in such districts is the only solution to the problem. The Missouri Red Book shows that, since May 1, 1911, special road districts have been created in 11 counties, which counties have floated bonds to the amount of $854,000 to insure the building of good roads. Every county in Missouri must follow this example, unless it is to be left behind in the march of progress. Spasmodic efforts are well enough in their way, but money and skill, with the right kind of organization, is needed to lift Missouri literally out of the mud.

Road day was unique in several respects. Among other interesting features, it gave the people a chance to see some politicians actually doing a day's work.

MUNICIPAL PHILOSOPHY.

New York City, with a bonded debt of more than a billion dollars, faces and is almost ready to yield to the necessity to pay for future non-revenue-producing public improvements by assessing their cost against benefited property, and to define future bond issues to betterments whose revenues, taken by the city, will pay for themselves. This policy, plus an increment tax on land values, was long since adopted by the leading cities of Europe, and must eventually be adopted by all American cities.

The power to tax must be supplemented by municipal ownership of revenue-producing properties, or our cities will not be able to keep pace with the paternalistic demands of the time.

John Lindsay, Town Clerk of Glasgow, which city has carried municipal ownership farther and more successfully than any other in the world, states this new policy in a nutshell when he said:

"We do not propose that any individual or incorporated group of individuals shall take a profit from any service which the municipal government can supply to our people better and more cheaply, nor that private fortunes shall be derived from any service which, being social in character, should pour its surplus earnings into the municipal treasury for social uses."

Glasgow devotes the profits from 1-cent car fares, 45-cent gas (with free cooking and heating stoves), electric light equally cheap and water even cheaper, to supplying perfect sanitation; low rents in municipal tenements replacing slums, taken by condemnation and torn down; continuation schools in which youths fit themselves to earn more in the trades they have adopted; art galleries and public playgrounds; municipal laundries and baths in which, for a pittance, a crowded population finds a means of keeping clean; municipal slaughter houses and markets, spotless and odorless, guaranteeing the safety of the food supply, and keeping its prices within bounds, etc. Time and the terrors bred of unrestricted "private initiative" will teach us.

ASKING TOO MUCH OF HUERTA.

It is regrettable that Huerta has not accepted our proposals—yet did anybody seriously expect that he would accept them?

It was proposed that Huerta virtually immolate himself. It might not have been too much to ask of a patriot, a true statesman, a hero, that he yield up his place and his power for the good of his people. But to ask it of an adventurer whose lodestar was personal ambition and whose opportunism balked not even at murder, whose very accession to place and power had been through treason and assassination, was little short of preposterous. There was nothing in the peace proposals to appeal to Huerta's self-interest or vanity; they involved only his effacement, his self-effacement at that; and they might as well have been addressed to a Machiavelli or a Tammany boss.

A good man, holding his place by right, could never be asked to abdicate for the sake of his country. A bad man knows no such consideration. In this day and age bad men do not voluntarily resign thrones or executive posts for any reason—and when have they done so in any age?

There is no force in Mexico sufficient to compel him to resign. And this Government threatens him with no force. The other principal nations of the world have recognized and confirmed Huerta in his authority.

For the present, then, the United States must accept or regard him as a fixed quantity, an established fact, if not the principal factor in the situation. It cannot undo him without virtual war or without giving substantial aid and comfort to his enemies, which it has no purpose to do.

Thus it is a curious and an anomalous attitude and relation which this Government shall bear towards the de facto President whom, though refusing to recognize, it will still hold to a measure of responsibility for the protection of American lives, property and interests, and with whom it will continue to parley.

Whatever else it may have accomplished in the way of assuring European nations of our pacific and humane intent towards Mexico, Lind's mission has established a basis of dealing with Huerta—put us in a quasi-friendly relation with one whom we nevertheless choose to hold at arm's length; a delicate accomplishment indeed and one which may yet bear good fruit for the peace of the world. No more difficult mission was ever undertaken by a diplomat, which title Lind has justified in the highest sense. While he remains in Mexico and on terms with Huerta there will continue a lively hope for peace. One Lind in Mexico is a better safeguard than all the $25,000,000 constabulary that Penrose would send.

The kiosk thermometer went on its vacation a few days too soon.

MUZZLING A DOG OF WAR.

Senator Penrose was promptly and ponderously sat upon by his Republican colleagues when he offered his scare-head resolution to appropriate $25,000,000 to police Mexico. He is not likely to repeat the offense, or, if he does, it will be in a whisper.

If other war dogs could be as promptly muzzled the situation would lose much of its difficulty. The jingo canines which make the most noise and are the most difficult to muzzle are yellow mongrels of the journalistic species.

Perhaps Mr. Luther Ely Smith would like the job of Weather Censor.

ACADEMIC OBSERVATIONS.

The cynic who accused Democratic politicians of an infinite capacity for blundering, might have made the same charge against Republican politicians and all others without discrediting them. In politics and in all other human affairs, we may blunder through our worst and make the best of it, as soon as we become conscious of the meaning and consequences of our worst blunders.

Two particularly bad blunders of which we need to become conscious now or in the near future are a result of false syntax, which consists of putting the things together wrongly and trying to make them agree, when there is something in their nature making their agreement impossible.

Under the second Cleveland administration, the Democrats succeeded in opening the markets to a greater supply of the necessaries and comforts of life than the country had had in a full generation. This would have cheapened them by distributing them and bringing them in easier reach of all, making business more active in distributing a greatly increased supply of goods. At the same time, however, for several years, a combination so controlled the supply of money in circulation that the price of money increased until it added a very great pressure of artificial cheapness to the market. When these two causes operate together—an increased supply of goods and a decreased circulation of money—the inevitable tendency is to make goods artificially cheap, because they are kept in stock instead of being distributed. This is the logic of cheap goods, with no movement in a dead market.

Beginning under the McKinley administration, the per capita circulation of money was greatly increased while at the same time the Republican party was forcing up the prices of goods by closing the market through its prohibitive tariff and other devices intended to restrict and control commodity supply. As either of these things operates to force up prices, the blunder of putting both to work at once was staggering. The Republican party may not recover from it for years.

These observations belong purely to political economy. They are wholly "academic." They may be applied to practical politics, however, by anyone who knows that, for some reason, it does not bring continuous prosperity at cards to deal simultaneously from the top and bottom of the deck.

The conviction of Maury Diggs is really the conviction of two young women—and their sentences are for life.

What is really needed is a "road day" for State legislators.

Rest Day is also a large, fine day for road workers.

Thaw is making the most of his Canada outing.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Speed Maniac and His Victims.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The speed maniac, after he has lost the head of his fellow man, goes into court with the excuse that he lost his own head first, and is told to get into his automobile and do it again; while the other poor fellow is swept from this stage of action where he had as much right to live and do business as anybody—swept into eternity, to be missed and mourned by a loving, grief stricken heart-broken wife and helpless children, whether anybody else cares or not.

If, instead of being told to get into his car and do it again, he were compelled to find some man who has not lost his head to drive his automobile and that if he were ever caught driving an automobile again a way would be found for him to reach the penitentiary there to think it over for a few years, it is very probable that all such would learn a lesson. This would not deprive the speeder of any of the just rights and privileges of citizenship, but would bring him to a level with the men, women and children whose lives he feels himself at liberty to crush out in the twingling of an eye at any moment to gratify his own selfish fast going craze.

J. A. TATE.

Stores in Residence Streets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Some property owners seem to delight in ruining beautiful city residence blocks by erecting stores extending beyond the building line of the street. Such is the case on the very beautiful block of 6100 Berlin. A building is being erected which resembles a garage and extends to the very edge of the pavement on the south east corner of Berlin avenue and Skinker road. Some step should be taken to prevent the erection of such an out-of-place building, especially when the building cuts off the entire view of the block, like a spite fence.

CIVIC PRIDE.

Costly Paving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have just received special tax bill of $51.44 for paving alley between Clara and Goodfellow avenues and in rear of Theodosia avenue. This is on 25 feet frontage. When the Clarendon district sewer was put in, the excavation was about 34 feet deep, and in many places rock had to be blasted out. Besides this, skilled labor had to be employed to a great extent; better and more brick had to be used, and all brick and cement was handled by more or less skilled labor, and yet the price for 25 feet frontage was only $53.50. How is it that a job much easier to do, with little skilled labor used, less material and less expensive material used, costs nearly as much as an expensive sewer? Are our city officials asleep?

S. A. GEORGE.

Follow Up Road Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will you permit me to point out that this two-days' road building stunt in Missouri is rather a futile affair? No permanent good road can be constructed in two days. All the men and all the implements that can be crowded into the space of a mile of highway could not make in two days an enduring road bed. The most these 250,000 road workers will be able to accomplish is to scrape the surface, do a bit of unscientific regrading and perhaps straighten out a kink here and there. After two or three heavy rains it is no guess what these roads will be like. It is curious that those who need and use most the highways of the state do not realize that the work of building a permanent road is a considerable engineering undertaking which requires not only expert direction, but the use of proper material, the employment of much labor and the expenditure of a great deal of time.

SEMI-PRO.

Smokers, Keep to Back Seats!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Smoking in the cars is getting worse and worse and because of the open windows, smokers use any part of the car, at any time. It makes no difference where they sit, other passengers cannot get away from the odor, the smoke and the ashes are an abomination. I never saw a smoker blow his smoke upwards or out the window, or ask a seatmate if the smoke was objectionable. He simply puffs it out and those who "don't like it can lump it." Let the cigar be ever so good, or the pipe ever so clean, smoke of tobacco will pollute a car that sickens many women and children and often produces headaches in some men.

The season of closed windows is fast approaching, where the nuisance will be intensified. It is to be hoped that before that time the car company will show some consideration for most of its patrons and prohibit smoking on every seat of the car.

The smoker has suffered for a long time, now give us a chance.

PURE AIR.

Those Kiosk Thermometers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The courthouse government thermometers were a libel on St. Louis temperature and ought to have been removed. It is to be hoped that certain interested parties, whose motive is merely to draw as many people to that corner as possible, regardless of the injury to the city, will not succeed in their efforts to replace the thermometers, at least there. In the position in which they were located, out of the protection of buildings and surrounded by glaring white stone pavements and streets, in which the sun shone almost continuously, they really showed the temperature in the sun instead of in the shade, as they should.

NATIVE ST. LOUISAN.

ANIMALS AND MUSIC.

From London Tid Bits.

A unique musical experiment has been conducted recently in France. It was resolved to institute concerts for animals for the purpose of observing the effects of music upon them. The results of the observations made established the fact that disconnected tones on stringed instruments created no effect upon horses beyond causing some of the animals to manifest signs of impatience, but when a melody was played the horses turned toward the players, pricked up their ears, and showed plainly the pleasure they experienced.

An orchestral concert was given before the elephants in Le Jardin des Plantes. The animals became excited and impatient when passionate music was played, but calm when a sustained, melodious and flowing style was adopted.

Dogs were found to be partial to the various instruments according to breed, but the dog that will show affection or even respect for the bagpipes is not yet born. Dogs have marked musical likes and dislikes. Some have a liking for, others aversion to, the piano, violin and flute, but all became enraged when tunes were played at a very rapid rate. It was found also that dogs had frequently their favorite composers, and would prefer Handel to Beethoven, Mozart to Mendelssohn, Brahms to Schumann, Moscheles to Chopin, but none was discovered to show an appreciation for Wagner.

The late Rev. R. Eastcote of Exeter once told the story of five choristers who, one Sunday evening, were walking along the banks of the Mersey in Cheshire. After a time they sat down on the grass and began to sing an anthem. A hare passing with great swiftness toward the place where they were sitting, stopped at about 20 yards' distance from them. She appeared to be highly delighted with the music, and as soon as the singing ceased returned to the wood. When she had nearly reached the end of the field the choristers began to sing again. The hare stopped, turned round and came swiftly to the same place, and remained listening in seeming rapture and delight until the singing ceased, when she returned to the wood.

THE CRICKET ON THE HEARTH.

WHEN I come back from the country
I shall miss the pure, sweet air,
And I shall grieve for many things
That make it pleasant there.
I shall miss the acorns dropping
Upon the roof at night,
And the miracle of morning
When the sun was soft and bright.

But the cricket on the hearth—
That almost breaks my heart
To think that we two troubadours
Should ever have to part.

WHEN I went into the country
The place was dead and chill—
But lo! two kindred spirits met
When I came up the hill.
He knew me for a poet,
And I knew him for a bird,
And many were the madrigals
The forest creatures heard.

But the cricket on the hearth—
It almost breaks my heart
To think that we two troubadours
Should ever have to part.

WHEN I come back from the country,
I never shall be missed
By any of the still, green hills
The morning sun has kissed;
But the cricket—he will miss me—
And in the Autumn wood,
He'll ask, "Where did that fellow go—
The one who understood?"

But the cricket on the hearth—
It almost breaks my heart
To think that we two troubadours
Should ever have to part.

THE PICNIC.

Talk about a picnic, you should have been along,
Gathered out at Eagles' Nest, had a simply regal rest,
Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers,
All of us and then some others,
Giddy, happy throng,
Chicken on the table, lemonade and pop,
Freest hospitality, boundless liberality,
Kids swinging, girls singing,
All the woods with laughter ringing,
When it rained a drop,
Boys a-playing baseball with the married men,
Little folks a-racing there, cotton-tail a-chasing there,
All enjoying, none annoying,
Everyone a smile employing—
Say! Let's go again!
—Louisiana (Mo.) Times.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, who changed his mind about wanting to be President of China, has sailed from Japan to exhibit his theory of government in the financial centers of Europe.

DIME FEE TO SEE WEDDING.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

One of the unusual features of a Salvation Army marriage in Colorado Springs was a fee of 10 cents for admission to the First Christian Church, where the ceremony was celebrated. An audience of fully 1000 gladly paid for admission. Conducted in accord with the ritual of the Army, the ceremony presented features novel and new to those assembled.

Salvation Army weddings are practical affairs, and all the pomp and expense of usual church weddings is eliminated.

The word "obey" was left out of the woman's response entirely, and the couple were married "in the name of the Lord and the Salvation Army."

When the wedding ring was slipped upon the bride's finger, the audience applauded as it would a good piece of acting at a theater, and Col. Lee remarked: "I hope you all got your money's worth. There will be no ice cream or anything to drink, but there will be a collection."

Following the services short talks were made by both the bride and bridegroom, relating how they met each other, what drew them together, their hopes and aspirations in the family as well as the Salvation Army work, and of their ideas of marriage in the religious organization.

HERE'S THE PET DEMON.

From the New York Globe.

From Satan we learn to protect us,
We baffle Asmodeus, too;
All the fiends of the pit
With their might and their wit
Gain little from me or from you.

We scorn their familiar temptations;
We mock them, refusing to fall;
But a little red imp
That is feeble and limp
A menace remains to us all.

A member is he of our household,
This wee little traitor in red,
Still in joy and in gloom
He is plotting our doom—
He never relents till we're dead.

A little old, crippled old devil!
A garrulous, chattering knave!
He betrays with a zest
And the strongest and best,
In sorrow he brings to the grave.

Seek not for this little red devil
Above or about or beneath;
For him you will find—
And safe there should bind
In silence—just back of your teeth!

NEIGHBORLY AMENITIES.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"No, we never stay at home Sunday. It's too disagreeable."

"Disagreeable?"

"Yes. Our next-door neighbor goes away and leaves his dog locked up in the house and the poor brute barks and whines all day."

"It gets on your nerves, eh?"

"No, it isn't that. But the neighbors expect us to interfere."

"Well, why don't you? Tell your neighbor frankly about his howling dog."

"How can I when we've just got a new phonograph and my eldest daughter is learning to sing?"

Two Ages.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Joax. Shakespeare told us all about the seven ages of man, but he didn't say anything about two ages of woman.

Hoax: And what are the two ages of woman?

Joax: The age she says she is and the age she really is.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

ABOUT RAILROAD TIES.

R. A. C.—This statement was published in 1907: "Metal ties, principally cast, have been used on various roads abroad for 50 years. They are not altogether a success and most roads substitute timber again. Not only is cost an objection, but they make construction too light and fail to get a good hold in the ballast, thus rendering it difficult to keep the track in line." This in 1912: "Probably the chief reason that wooden ties are used instead of any other kind in America is their cheapness as compared with other kinds. The wooden ties cost but $1 or less apiece and steel ones $2 to $3.50. The concrete ties which would be much cheaper than the steel ones, are said to lack crushing strength; they crumble under heavy traffic. Concrete ties of varying designs are still being experimented with by some of the railroads. In many parts of Europe, steel ties are used extensively, some of them having already been in use for more than a quarter of a century. The life of good wooden ties is usually six to 10 years, according to the kind of wood and the character of the soil in which they are laid, those laid on the Western alkali plains lasting the longer." In 1907, in Germany, 493,800 tons of steel ties and fasteners were manufactured.

FISHING.—In Missouri no license. In Illinois non-resident fishing with pole and line only requires no license.

J. M. S.—Indorser of note is liable, but when due, immediate steps should be taken to have it accepted or protested; payment should be demanded and quick action taken at maturity to hold indorser, and any extension of time or failure to protest may release him. As to the maker alone, such step is not necessary, as the note is his and he is always liable until voided by statutes of limitation.

TEMPERANCE.—Amended dramshop law forbids saloon keepers and individuals and firms dispensing intoxicating liquors to employ persons under 21 years of age about their premises or sell or give away to them liquors of any kind. This offense is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine ranging from $40 to $100 or a jail sentence of three months or both. The law makes it incumbent on the Excise Commissioner to revoke the license of the offender and under no circumstances when the license is revoked for this cause may a new one be issued.

MRS. I. M. W.—A wife dying without a will, two children by former marriage surviving (and no descendants of any deceased child surviving), they would take title absolutely to all the real estate if no child was born (and born alive) of the second marriage; in other words, in that event her second husband would have no curtesy or right whatever in her real estate. As to her personal property, it would not matter whether there was any child or not of second marriage, and therein he could claim a child's share regardless of whether her present children were his own or not.

MISCELLANEOUS.

D. S. A.—Send stamped envelope, bearing your address, and we will direct you to correct information that is free.

Q.—Gettysburg is two states north of Virginia. It is in Pennsylvania. It is stated on the authority of officers in the Confederate army that a balky mule decided the battle of Gettysburg. The Southern and Northern troops were both attempting to reach an eminence, the position of which practically decided the battle, and the Southern column was blocked by a balky mule just long enough to enable the Northern troops to gain the eminence; so that balky mule really decided the battle.

H. M. D.—Rose bushes can be easily started for growing by pulling off a slip at the joint and planting in the ground with a little sand. Cover with an inverted glass can. Let remain all winter. A sure way to grow rose slips is to start your slips during the dark nights of October. Select good slips; then dig the hole about one foot wide and one foot deep; fill with red clay; then pour about a quart of water over this; put in about three slips to each hole; place a fruit jar over them and let remain till spring.

DES.—Earth's roundness hides masts of ship; good eyes see farthest, but they do not see beyond the curvature of the earth. Curvature of mile of ocean surface, 2.04 inches. At one foot above the level of the sea objects on its surface are visible for a distance of 1.31 miles; at five feet, 2.96 miles; six feet, 3.24 miles; 10 feet, 4.18 miles; 20 feet, 5.92 miles; 25 feet, 6.61 miles; 30 feet, 7.25 miles; 40 feet, 8.37 miles; 50 feet, 9.35 miles; 100 feet, 13.23 miles; 150 feet, 16.22 miles; 200 feet, 18.72 miles. The distance is, of course, increased according to the height the objects observed are above the level of the sea. The distance of the horizon from the observer is the same, with a slight increase in consequence of curved direction of the sight owing to the refraction of the air. The world's circumference is 24,902 miles; meridional circumference, that is by north and south, 24,860 miles; equatorial diameter, 7926 miles; polar diameter, 7899 miles.

U. R. C.—A physician says: Dandruff is generally the result of mismanagement of the hair. From all portions of the skin there is constantly being thrown off invisible scales from the epidermis. This same process is taking place on the scalp, but in the case of the scalp these scales are apt to be detained from one cause or other, and a large number conglomerated together form a visible scale which we call dandruff. If I were to put a dandruff scale under a microscope and pick it to pieces with a needle, I should find it to consist of a large number of epidermal scales. This shows that the natural exfoliation of epidermal scales on the scalp has been interfered with in some way by keeping the hair done up or by using oil on the hair or alkalies, or wearing a hat too constantly, or failure to give the scalp ordinary and wholesome exercise. As for myself, I have no dandruff at all. My hair is luxurious and always has been. I use nothing whatever on my head, not even water. A good thorough hand rubbing once a day is all the treatment it gets. Not a particle of dandruff appears in my hair. Years ago, when I did not know any better, I used to wash my hair regularly, and I was troubled with dandruff the whole time.

ALTON.—Horsepower is a unit or standard by which the capabilities of steam engines and other prime movers are measured. Such power is based on the assumption that horses in general perform a certain constant amount of work in a specified time. The fundamental unit of work is the foot pound; but in measuring the work of a horse by this unit the estimates of the most celebrated engineers differ widely from each other. Boulton and Watt basing their calculations on the work of London dray horses working eight hours a day, estimated it at 33,000-foot pounds per minute. Other estimates range from 16,440 to 44,000 foot pounds, but as it matters little which figures are used providing the same always are, the estimate of Watt is still used. Foot pound is the unit by which the work done by a force is estimated. Thus (taking one pound and one foot as the units of weight and distance), if one pound be raised through one foot the work done is equal to one foot pound. If 10 pounds be raised nine feet the work done is 90 foot pounds. In calculating the power of a steam engine the general rule is to multiply together the pressure in pounds on a square inch of the piston, the area of the piston in inches, the length of the stroke in feet and the number of strokes per minute; the result divided by 33,000 will give the horsepower, but a tenth must be deducted as an allowance for friction. Nominal horsepower is used to express certain proportions of cylinder, indicated horsepower is from three to five times the nominal horsepower

A CHIVALROUS DEED

"HOW you must be acceptable to the political powers that be."

Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co.

By UNA HUDSON.

ANYONE who has ever had any experience knows without being told that unless you have a "pull" it's quite hopeless even to attempt to capture a political job.

You may be ever so competent, but if you are not personally acceptable to the powers that be you might better stop before you begin, for you'll land nothing except disappointment and blasted hopes and loss of faith in political mankind.

This not by way of gratuitous advice—it's good of its kind, but no man with the political bee in his bonnet would take it.

Rather, it is to explain why, when Dick Hartwell—or, as the campaign literature had it, Mr. Richard M. Hartwell—was elected to the office of District Attorney, I wasted much valuable time and wore out much good shoe leather in a frantic chase after various influential personages whose consent to my appointment to a place in Mr. Hartwell's office he had told me would be necessary for me to obtain.

I'd known Mr. Hartwell for several years, and we'd always been pretty good friends, but friendship doesn't count in politics. It's "pull" or the lack of it that's going to make or break you.

Finally, when I'd brought him references and recommendations sufficient, it seemed to me, to obtain a position in the President's Cabinet if that had been the thing I wanted, he said that if I'd just get Amos Warrington's indorsement of my candidateship he guessed he could get things fixed up for me.

On the strength of that I did any number of fool things involving an outlay of money, for I hadn't a doubt but that I'd be able to reach Warrington—and where was the use of economizing when I'd so soon have money enough to satisfy all reasonable desires?

Warrington's daughter had quite recently married my closest friend, Phil West. I was out of town when the wedding took place, and it so happened that I'd never met Mrs. West, but I knew she was desperately in love with Phil and would do everything in the world he asked her to.

And what was quite as much to the point, old Warrington idolized his daughter, and would do anything in the world she asked him.

I went around to see Phil, and found him just as cordial and anxious to help me as I could wish.

"Tell you what we'll do," he said. "You come around tomorrow about 5, and go home with me to dinner, and we'll see what Eleanor can do to help you out."

When I left Phil's office my soul was so overflowing with good will toward the world in general that I'd even have extended the right hand of fellowship to my bitterest enemy. I felt so good I fairly yearned to do something for somebody.

My opportunity came when I boarded my car.

It was crowded, packed, indeed, and as I hung on to my straps I caught sight of a mite of a girl wedged in between a woman whose figure was that of a feather bed tied in at the middle, and a great bulking brute of a fellow, evidently a laborer.

One of his big, dirty shoes was planted squarely on the lace-edged ruffle of the girl's thin summer dress, and his outthrust elbow was a constant menace to her dainty white fichu.

Now, it may be that if the girl had not been so remarkably pretty I would not have taken such an interest in her, but I like to think that I'm gentleman enough to come to the rescue of any woman in need of a champion.

However that may be, I leaned down and said a few words to the fellow who was annoying her. He didn't take it well, but then I hadn't anticipated that he would.

He got up and stalked out of the car, and the feather-bed woman, who seem to have made his quarrel hers, followed him. For my part, I thought their room was far more desirable than their presence.

I moved on up the car without waiting for the pretty girl to thank me. A good deed well done ought to be its own reward, and not for worlds would I have had her think I was trying to force myself upon her.

But I was glad it had been granted me to assist one so beautiful and so obviously in need of a protecting masculine presence.

The next afternoon I showed up promptly at 5 at Phil's office. I was particularly careful to be on time, for Phil lives in the suburbs, and if you miss a train it means something.

"Isn't it delightful," I said, when we found ourselves wedged tightly in a close, stuffy day coach, "to get away every night from the dust and noise of the city?"

As a matter of fact, I didn't think so at all, but I was determined to make myself agreeable.

"Um," said Phil; "I'm not so sure of that. I rather think we'll take a flat in town in the fall. You see, we've found it quite impossible to keep servants. And what is home without a cook? By the way, old man, I'm sure I haven't the faintest idea what we'll get to eat tonight, but it's bound to be pretty bad; neither Eleanor nor the waitress can cook a little bit, and our last cook left a week ago.

"Eleanor had a harrowing experience yesterday. She was importing a new cook—our fifth in two months—and because she wouldn't come without him, her husband was hired with her. Eleanor thought he could cut the grass and make himself generally useful about the place.

"But whether he could or couldn't, we could have taken him for the sake of getting his wife, if he'd been twins.

"Well, to make a long story short, the car was jammed, and between them they rather crowded Eleanor, the fellow even getting his feet mixed up in her ruffles. Eleanor didn't mind that in the least, for she can get all the new gowns she wants, but cooks are decidedly scarce with us.

"But—confound him!—there happened to be one of those officious chaps on the car; the sort who is always butting in where he has no business—you know the breed—and he took it upon himself to attempt to regulate the cook's husband's manners.

"And—well, he got mad, and his wife got mad, and we're looking for another cook. And you can just bet that Eleanor has it in for that fellow. If ever again she lays eyes on him I don't know what she won't do to him. Why, what's the matter, old chap—taken suddenly ill?

"I—I think so," I gasped weakly. "If you don't mind, I—I think I'll go back to the city. They seem to be stopping here. And—and will you just make my excuses to your wife, and say that I hope soon to have the pleasure of meeting her?",

Phil is a gullcless chap. He accepted my rather lame excuses in all good faith, and though I know he sometimes wonders at my constant refusals to run out and visit them, yet I think he is very far from guessing my real reason for so doing.

As for the job in Hartwell's office—that went to somebody else.

CHOOSING YOUR OCCUPATION

FOR many years the rate at which engineers have been taken from professional work into the management of railroads and industries has been increasing. This has been due to a recognition of the fact that a lawyer or business man is handicapped in handling large enterprises based essentially upon the work of the engineer. Unfortunately for the engineer, however, while he has decided advantages over the non-technical man because of his appreciation of the engineering factors, his training in economics, corporation organization and business law is generally not such as to give him the grasp necessary for the handling of the financial and executive affairs of a large corporation. The deficiency mentioned has been clearly recognized by large interests, and lately there has been a well defined demand for men who combined training in engineering and in corporation finance and administration.

Sensing the need, the alumni council of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology appointed a committee to consider the advisability of establishing such a course at the institute. That committee, says the Engineering Record, has now rendered its report. It states that in its opinion there is a real demand for "engineering graduates who have received, in addition to a fundamental training in science and engineering, instruction in business methods, business economics and business law," and that it is desirable to establish a new four-year course offering such a combined training.

"DID your son graduate with honors?"

"I should say he did. He had a batting average of .378."—Detroit Free Press.

STORIES OF FAMOUS NOVELS

FIELDING'S Amelia is the story of one sister's plotting against another.

AMELIA; by Henry Fielding.

AMELIA HARRIS and her sister Betty lived with their mother on a rambling old country estate in England about the middle of the eighteenth century. Mrs. Harris was very rich. And Amelia was her favorite child. Betty hated Amelia and was forever trying to stir up trouble for her.

A dashing young officer, Lieut. William Booth, flashed into the sisters' lives, and both of them fell in love with him. Amelia was by far the more beautiful of the two, and it was Amelia's love that Booth reciprocated.

Mrs. Harris was coaxed into consenting to the match. She bought Booth a captaincy and settled an allowance on the young couple. A few months later Capt. Booth's regiment was ordered to Gibraltar. There the young husband was wounded in battle, and for weeks hovered at death's door. Amelia came on to nurse him back to health. Then their sorrows began.

They were broke. Amelia wrote asking her mother for money to take them to a French resort, where Booth's strength could be built up. Betty answered the letter, presumably in her mother's name, refusing the request and grossly berating both Amelia and her husband. Amelia was dumfounded. The letter virtually disowned Booth and herself. They were cast adrift.

The friends who had curried favor with Booth when he had been known as the rich Mrs. Harris' son-in-law now shunned him. Only by the greatest effort could he raise money enough to get to France. There, while he was still convalescing, Amelia wrote a second letter of piteous appeal to her mother.

No answer came. She wrote next to a neighbor and learned that her mother had been dead for many months. Betty had not taken the trouble to notify her sister. It also appeared that Mrs. Harris had left a will, bequeathing only $500 to Amelia and the rest of her vast fortune to Betty.

The Booths were now without money, without occupation (as the Captain's regiment had been disbanded) and without hope. Back to England they came. Betty refused to give Amelia a penny, except on the impossible condition that she desert her husband. Through the kindness of an old friend Booth began life over again as a farmer.

Laziness, gambling and love for drink made sad havoc of Booth's new chances. Up to his eyes in debt, he left the farm and fled with Amelia and their children to London to escape going to the Debtors' Prison.

In the metropolis Amelia and her somewhat worthless husband underwent a long series of such mishaps as old-time writers loved to pile upon their heroes and heroines. More than once Booth was jailed for debt and for other causes. An adventuress fell in love with him and jealously caused all sorts of bother for the luckless fellow. He was forced into a duel, was used as a pawn in the game of politics and intrigue, and altogether had a most exciting and unpleasant time.

Two or three men of wealth and rank were smitten by Amelia's rare beauty and made love to her, only to be repulsed in disgust, and to seek revenge by further injuring her husband. Throughout the bitter ordeal of poverty, peril and sorrow Amelia bore herself with a gentle and saintly fortitude that was beautiful as it was improbable.

At last came the turn in fortune's tide. During one of Booth's several sojourns in jail a dying prisoner confessed to have abetted an attorney named Murphy in forging Mrs. Harris's will. Betty had hired Murphy to hide or destroy her mother's real will, which left everything to Amelia, and to substitute a forged will bequeathing everything to Betty herself.

Murphy was arrested. Among his papers Mrs. Harris's genuine will was found. Murphy was hanged—in those days they did not merely disbar crooked lawyers—and Betty escaped to France. Amelia and Booth left the city where they had suffered such harsh misfortunes and settled down to a life of wealth and happiness in the pleasant country home that Amelia loved.

When It Began.

A FRIEND of the family had been summoned to testify, much against his will, as to domestic disturbances in a certain household.

"You saw these blows administered?" asked counsel.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"Did you witness the beginning of the quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Dash.

"I did."

"When was it?"

"Six years ago."

"Six years ago! How is that possible?"

"I was a guest at their wedding," said the witness.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

LEARN ONE THING EVERY DAY

It is not unsual for an explorer in the Arctic regions to lose his eyesight due to the reflection of the bright sun on the white snow, and who has not seen people at the seashore wearing heavily smoked glasses to protect their eyes from the shining water? That this glare is annoying to the reader and injurious to the eyesight has long been appreciated; but according to the Electrical World, it is only recently that attempts have been made systematically to avoid glare in artificial lighting. Investigations have confirmed the theory that less density of illumination is required for seeing when glare is absent than when it is present, and the eye is able to see more clearly when lamps are hidden from view. The fact that glare can be eliminated without extra cost points to the rapid introduction of proper illuminating methods in all places where even a small amount of attention is paid to the subject.

Second Sight.

"WAS it a case of love at first sight?"

"I would hardly call it that. He did not get his auto until a month after they met.—Judge.

JACK JOHNSON A WRECK; LIVES IN FEAR OF ARREST

Earns $200 a Week, American Who Saw Him in Berlin Declares.

CHAMPION'S FORM POOR

His Boxing Exhibition Is Tame and His Body Is Fat and Flabby.

By ROBERT EDGREN.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—"Jack Johnson is a nervous wreck," said a well-known New York boxing fan who returned from Europe yesterday. "I went to see him perform last week at Berlin, where he boxed in a theater. He was in miserable condition, very fat and short-winded.

"But the thing that impressed me most was the way he constantly rolled his eyes from side to side, looking all over the house. He had the frightened expression of a hunted animal. He is in constant fear of being deported to the United States. He saw me down in a front seat and evidently spotted me as an American he had seen before, for a few minutes later a man came from behind the scenes and asked me if I wished to see Johnson.

"I went back. 'Johnson,' I said, 'I've never spoken to you in America and I wouldn't now, but for the fact that I fear you think I'm after you.'

"'Then you don't want me?' Johnson asked.

"'No,' I answered. 'I'm traveling through here. I saw you billed and came to look at your boxing. I have no other interest in you.'

"'You had me worried,' Johnson said. 'I thought you had come for me. I'm scared every time I see an American.'"

What a comedown!

"What are you getting?" I asked. 'A thousand francs?'

"'Just that,' he said. Imagine a thousand francs—$200—where he used to pull down $1500 a week! I doubt that he'll be able to do anything with boxing in Europe. From his appearance I should judge that any fairly good heavyweight would be able to beat him easily."

Trendall Returns From Trip to Coast; Eager to Meet Cross Again

Harry Trendall, St. Louis' best lightweight scrapper, returned to St. Louis Friday morning after a fruitless trip to the coast to get a match with Leach Cross, at Los Angeles. Trendall has no matches in sight, but has been promised the next open date at the Pacific Athletic Club, Los Angeles, by Tom McCarey.

Trendall states he expects to put in the busiest season of his pugilistic career this winter.

ROLAND HOERR A WINNER IN DALLAS TENNIS MEET

Roland Hoerr, the St. Louis player, who is paired with Paul McQuiston in the doubles of the Southwestern tennis tournament now in progress at Dallas, Tex., won a match in the semi-final round Thursday, defeating Hall and Blacklock, 6—2 and 6—1.

Hoerr will play Shelton of Dallas tomorrow in the semi-finals of the singles. He is favored to win.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

Mr. Griff of Washington was sad Thursday evening when he got the returns of the Philadelphia-Chicago game. "I thought the Sox pitchers would stop the Mackmen," said Griff. "You know the Sox took three out of four in the East. However, there's still hope. Philadelphia beat Benz, 7—1.

The Cardinals are digging their grave deeper. A defeat at the hands of the Braves while the Reds ran roughshod over the Superbas, widened the gap between Hug's men and Tinker's Tramps to two and one-half games.

Rube Oldring accepted five chances at short for C. Mack without an error. 'Twas once said that if Connie lost one of his regular infielders he would run on the rocks. He's still steering in deep water with land in sight.

WRAY'S COLUMN

On the Outside A-Lookin' In.

EVERY now and then some Horace Fogel ceases polishing the mahogany long enough to threaten an exposure of baseball. He promises to take the public behind the scenes and introduce it to all the intricacies—with the accent on the "trick"—of the politics of the national game.

Just as if, what with reduction plants and stockyards effects, there were not enough malodors in the world without taking on new ones!

In any case, what does the baseball fan care about the petty cheatings and chicanery of a lot of magnates? The labyrinth of inside baseball, from the owner's viewpoint, is about as clear to a baseball crank as a tariff schedule—and about half as interesting.

• • •

What's All This Coil About?

WE sympathize with some of the unfortunate owners, thus exposed, not because of any of the things about which the exposures have been made, but because of the evident fact that they, for years, seem not to have enjoyed their night's rest. The beds are too straight for them to lie in, comfortably.

But as far as desiring to probe the nature of the instance in which Bill Jones jobbed John Smith out of a player, and was in turn "done brown" by Frank Creep, we leave that to the National Commission, and to the upholders of such statutes as our ancestors providentially have placed on the books.

Whenever exposures rise to the point where they may affect the future of the national game, it's time to knock on the door, Horace. But don't make us lose any sleep over a false alarm.

• • •

Bring On McLoughlin.

ROLAND HOERR and Drummond Jones, two live wires in local tennis circles, are engaged on a mission that should enlist the interest and aid of every follower of the net game in this city.

An invitation tournament of small proportions but high class is being planned by them for early in September. The object of it is to bring to St. Louis some of the best players of the country, in order that, for the first time since the World's Fair, enthusiasts here may see how local tennis standards compare with national ones.

Among those players of National repute expected to appear here, if plans mature, are: McLoughlin, Bundy, Strachan, Griffin and others now showing in the all-comers tournament at Newport. Not even during the World's Fair tournament was higher class evident than would be displayed by the visitors named, if they came.

Tennis is the most popular outdoor sport in St. Louis today, next to baseball, but owing to the intense heat of the summer months there is almost no chance to induce out-of-town stars to show here. The proposed event should not be permitted to hang fire because of want of support from St. Louis sympathizers.

• • •

Easy Title for Some One.

JACK JOHNSON is "meat" for some good boxer. If Gunboat Smith wants to get a championship easy, now is the time to go to it. Johnson is 35 years of age, fat, flabby, dissipated, worried and weakened in every possible way. The first GOOD man that meets him should take his measure in less than twenty rounds.

Gunboat is the lad with the punch and the courage. A match with the title holder, at present, could only result one way—in favor of the white man—if foreign reports are true.

Beware of "Tham" Langford.

N. B.—But after whipping him, Gunboat, become an artist, at once. And the first thing to draw, we recommend, is the color line.

• • •

Owgoost Is Some "Canner."

IN the matter of emitting that minor wail against the treatment he has received at the hands of the Cincinnati club, Manager Joe Tinker refuses to be gagged. But Joe should remember that today music is easily "canned."

Very Little Difference.

AFTER reading carefully the correspondence between Will Grayson and Charles Webb Murphy, concerning the marketing of baseball players, our opinion of the pot and the kettle is approximately the same as formerly.

Pity the Poor Slave.

RECALLING the salaries and luxuries enjoyed by the baseball players of today, we are reminded that, as a "chattel," a diamond star makes a very fine coupon clipper.

HUGGINS WEARIES OF HOPELESS JOB; BENCHES HIMSELF

Cardinals' Leader Sees Team and Pitcher Lose Game Already Won.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Miller Huggins promised before the season began that if he had not made a success with the Cardinals by the first of July he would resign as manager. After looking over his club yesterday he must have convinced himself that nothing could ever make a success of the outfit now in his charge.

However, no resignation is forthcoming, nor will one be, he says, unless the owners of the club see fit to ask it. President Britton has already announced that Huggins would be in charge next season.

One thing Miller did, in the effort to bring about a winning combination. He benched himself for no physical cause and sent Whitted to second base. Whitted hit and bungled by turns, in Miller's shoes.

After getting away to a four-run lead the Cardinals were unable to hold their advantage and the Braves came from behind and captured the first game of the present series by a score of 7 to 6.

How It Happened.

Griner started and pitched air-tight ball for about three innings, but he weakened at the half-way mark. Bob Harmon was sent in to stop the Braves. After Harmon went to the mound McDonald drove out the hit that tied the game, but from then until the ninth the Braves were turned back in order.

Hits by Zinn and Perdue sandwiched around Whitted's error put three men on with nobody down in the final frame. After Maranville's hit in front of the plate developed into a double play, Harmon filled the cushions again by passing Myers, and then handed Boston the game by serving Connolly four bad balls.

Marathon Men to Get No Help in Olympic Race

International A. A. A. Would Bar Stimulants, Refreshments and Aides.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Olympic Marathon races of the future will be made more difficult for contestants, if the recommendation of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, adopted at its meeting here yesterday, be approved by the Olympic Games Committee.

The local experts on athletics decided that, in future, marathoners must run absolutely unaided, as do the contestants in all other running events. This means that the entrants must not be accompanied or coached by bicycle aides, must not receive refreshments during the running of the race and must not partake of stimulants during the contest.

Another recommendation that is almost sure to be adopted is that which provides for the setting back one meter, from the starting point, of false breakers in sprint races. In previous Olympic games the absence of this rule gave rise to much delay and many pernicious practices in efforts to "beat the gun."

Another feature of the recommendation is the abandonment of the blind cross-country run, used in Sweden during the last Olympics. According to the old condition the course was unknown to contestants until a few minutes before the race. In future blue prints of the course will be made six months before the event takes place.

James E. Sullivan, representing the United States, was responsible for the recommendation recalling false breaks.

SPORT SALAD

By L. C. DAVIS.

TO WALTER JOHNSON.

PIN not your faith, nor further laurels seek
By going up against a team that's weak.
For, while our Browns are trailing in the rear,
'Tis their delight to bust a winning streak.

Brothers of big-league stars seldom make good; therefore we see no very bright future for Hank Williams of the Yankees.

• • •

Harmon didn't walk Connolly in the ninth. It was a joy ride he gave him.

• • •

Another spike in the old cellar door.

• • •

Park Commissioner Davis has a tennis racket on his hands. He has been asked to draw the color line on the courts in Forest Park.

In an endeavor to get a manager who will stick, Garry Herrmann is said to be casting eyes at Tommy Leach. And there's Johnny Kling; he might hang on for a while.

The road from St. Louis to Pennantville is in very bad shape. Come on, you fancy shovelers!

McLoughlin Puts Strong Foe Out of Tennis Race

American Champion's Victory Over Clothier Features Newport Event.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—Champion Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco made a long stride toward retaining his tennis title by eliminating in straight sets today one of the strongest opponents, William J. Clothier of Philadelphia. The scores were, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4.

The match started with McLoughlin serving. Clothier won the first point on an out by his opponent. McLoughlin running in on his service soon won the first game.

The Californian took the second game on dazzling drives down the side lines. Clothier won third on McLoughlin's errors, but the champion soon made the set 4—1 by swift places. Both players ran in on their service. Clothier in the sixth game proved a stone wall at the net and in the seventh won on McLoughlin's errors.

McLoughlin then settled down to work, driving skilfully down the side lines and won the set, 6—3.

Walter Johnson Sidesteps Stovall's Record-Busters Will Not Oppose Browns

Local Players, Who Are Noted for Smashing the Record Achievements of Opponents, Were Looking Forward to Halting Johnson's Winning Streak, Now 13 Straight.

By W. J. O'Connor.

WALTER JOHNSON'S goat now belongs to the Browns by right of previous conquest. Upon reaching St. Louis, Thursday morning, Johnson proceeded to Sportsman's Park and turned over to Manager Stovall one lean angora who is now teathered to the Browns' bench.

Johnson's presentation speech was something like this: "You can have my goat, but you can't break my record for consecutive games won. I have put together, despite a sore arm, a string of 13 straight victories. This represents much labor, worry and lobbying. You guys are aching to ruin my record, so I have decided not to pitch here. MY NEXT GAME WILL BE AGAINST THE WHITE SOX, IN CHICAGO, SUNURDAY. so there!"

There was much gloom on the Browns' bench after this announcement. It has been the Browns' specialty since this season began to check all winning streaks, whether of teams or individuals. They were primed for Johnson and expected to land him in the last game, Friday. But Manager Griffith is foolish like a fox; so he decided to use Groom, Engle and Hughes or Boehling here, saving Johnson for somebody easy like the White Sox.

Needs Seven More Victories.

The Fireball King, who has won 13 in a row, despite his sore arm, says his wing is rounding to nicely and he expects to get going before long. He aims to surpass Marquard's mark of 19 successive wins and also Wood's record of 35 victories and five defeats for a season. He needs only seven more successive victories to kill both birds.

Besides Johnson, the Washington club is composed of several other gentlemen, notably Clarke Griffith, a manager. Griffith, familiarly known as Old Reynard, is the world's champion optimist. He still believes that his team has a chance for the pennant.

"We've got a good outside chance of beating the Athletics. They're through, traveling just now on their rep. But mark my word that if we don't finish first, we'll finish second. We'll head off Cleveland just as sure as water is wet.

"We have seven more games with the Mackmen. If we ever get within hailing distance, Walter Johnson is willing to work every other day. Everybody on my club but Shanks is in good shape just now. He has a lame ankle, but he's hitting like a fiend. He's so eager to keep the club up there that he won't lay off and let the ankle mend.

Bad Start Hurt Senators.

"We'd have the pennant cinched right now only for a series of tough breaks at the start of the season. Bob Groom's failure the first two months put a kink in our pennant chances. However, Bob is going great guns just at present. Boehling has regained his stride and we're ready to crowd the Athletics in the stretch drive. The Mackmen deserve to win just .500 per cent of their games. They've been running wild all season, but are traveling at a normal pace now.

"I was surprised to hear that the Browns released Johnny Lavan. He looked like the best young shortstop I've seen in many a day. In a few years he should be the game's greatest.

"He'll never hit much, but a fielder of his stripe, like our McBride and Doolan of the Phillies, can be carried for their defensive work. If I didn't have the best shortstop in the game I would have claimed Lavan.

"Say, I have another star on my club that a lot of you fellows have overlooked. That's Gandil. Give him the once over, in this series, and see what I mean. He's the timeliest hitter in the game, plays that bag to perfection and is a good young man off the field. I wouldn't trade him for any man in the League."

Griffith loves to talk, but he usually knows whereof he speaks, and what he says always is pertinent. And there are those who believe that the only reason the Nationals are not in seventh place is GRIFF.

Crosses Continent to See Walter Johnson; Disappointed by Griff

A SUN-TANNED fan approached the press box at Sportsman's Park Thursday and asked: "When will Johnson pitch?"

When told that Johnson wouldn't oppose the Browns this season, the caller frowned. "I'm all the way from Southern California and I stopped off here just to see Johnson, but I guess I've been bilked again. I'll go to Chicago, though, because I told the folks at home I would see Johnson."

Johnson now is considered a greater attraction than Cobb. The fireball king announces he will demand a salary of $12,500 next year. He figures he earns more than that at the gate.

For Want of a Coacher Shotton Looks Around; Caught at Plate

BERT SHOTTON, who runs like a deer and thinks like a doe, stopped to look back on his way from third to the home plate in the first frame of Thursday's game with Washington; and, like Lot's wife, was lost.

Shotton opened the inning with a Titanic triple. He held the bag while Austin was effaced on a roller to Gandil. Then Pratt poked a wicked drive towards left. McBride made a wonderful stop with his ungloved hand. He was off his balance and in no position to throw. Shotton could have scored standing up, had he hiked hard. But he stopped. When he started again, Catcher Henry had the ball waiting for him. Score: Washington 2, Browns 0.

It was Leversens against Groom, and both pitched well, the hits being five for and six ferninst the home boys. Gandil's walk, his steal and Shanks' single netted one for the alien troupers in the second. Milan's triple off Baumgardner, in the ninth, and Gandil's scratch blow consigned the second run to the rubber.

The Browns weren't dangerous often. However, Mr. Johnston opened the third with a single. Then Agnew bounded to Groom, who took a desperate chance of getting Johnston at second. Johnston lumbered along and didn't [illegible] being out by a hair's breath. Gr[illegible]bulled the unexpected in this case, so how could Johnston help it. He's not supposed to know.

One big reason why local ball clubs lose a lot of games is that they have no competent coachers. McGraw does a lot for the Giants from the coacher's box, so does Harry Davis for the Mackmen. And likewise Griff, Shaefer and Altrock for the Nationals.

Griffith's clever coaching was responsible for Washington's second run in the ninth. Foster opened this round with a walk, but died stealing. Then Milan drove a liner to the left-field fence. As Milan turned first Griff yelled loudly, "Take three." "Take three." It looked like a desperate chance, but Milan is a happy hiker and he made the far corner by a great slide. Griff knew Milan's ability and took advantage of it. He won.

Ray Morgan is playing a sassy game at second base for the Nationals. He had all three putouts in the second inning, backing into right field for Williams' lift while he ran back, leaped and speared Baisenti's drive. He absorbed Brief's pop back of second with ease and grace. Morgan is only an average player, who hustles hard.

All good ball clubs have some excess baggage. McGraw carries Wilbur Robinson, Tim Thorpe, usually Dick Kinsella, and in previous years Arlie Latham. Griff has the world-famous clowns, Schaefer and Altrock. Their foolish antics inspire the athlete. They keep everybody on their toes and make a second division club look like a pennant-winner. There's something spectacular about such men as Griffith, McGraw, Clarke et al.

SOCCER MAGNATES SAY KLOSTERMAN IS TRYING TO STEAL THEIR STARS

Trouble is brewing in the soccer circles hereabouts because Willie Klosterman, who is "coming back," has made overtures to all the star players of the other teams. It is said that Klosterman has approached Tate Brady of the Columbus club and Zarchell of the Business Men's A. C. with propositions to join the St. Louis, who aim to retain their hold on the soccer supremacy.

Other managers are becoming peeved and it's no certainty that King Finnegan of the Knights or Willie Foley of the Innisfails will return. Present plans are for the league to resume at Athletic Park, although there's a rumor that the St. Louis will take possession of that park and play independent ball. A reorganization meeting soon will be held.

Webster Paddlers Hold Meet.

The associated Boys' Clubs of Webster Groves will hold a swimming meet at the Delmar Bathing Beach next Wednesday evening. Tom Whittaker of the M. A. C. will be in charge, and will run off the following events: 50, 100 and 400 yard swims, 50-yard back stroke and 200-yard relay race.

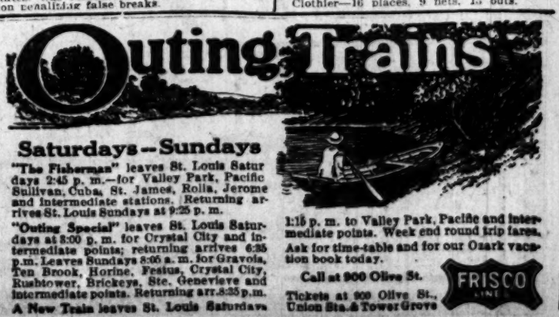

JONES' DOUBLE WITH 3 ON WINS FOR TERRIERS, 4-3

Leo Jones, the clever leftfielder of the local Federals, copped a double with the bases full in the eighth epic of Thursday's game with Kansas City, and the proteges of O'Connor won, 4—3. Hank King pitched for the locals and held the enemy in check.

O'Connor's men have a chance to finish in third place by taking this series from the Packers, as the Chicago team is having very little success with the leading Hoosiers.

TO THE PEOPLE OF ST. LOUIS

Since the inauguration of the sale of lots in SOUTHAMPTON on June 22d, this year, we have sold to over one hundred and sixty individual purchasers.

In no case have any one of them purchased in excess of 90 feet.

This indicates that they are not buying for speculative purposes, but anticipate at some reasonably early date they will be able to improve the property they have purchased for residential use.

If you have observed the progress of St. Louis in reference to the marketing of large areas, you will confirm the statement, that where building is going on with any reasonable degree, the property increases in value. This but confirms the wisdom of ages—that people make values.

Assuming that the facts relative to SOUTHAMPTON will warrant the statements made that it will improve in proportion to other property in this vicinity, we say to you frankly:

We are offering you the greatest value in Real Estate ever offered to the people of St. Louis.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat and other untoward conditions with which we have had to contend, we do not believe that ever before was there so successful a promotion and sale of Real Estate in St. Louis as has occurred in SOUTHAMPTON the past eight weeks.

We are selling this ground on remarkably liberal terms.

In the unimproved district a man can buy a lot fronting 30 feet for $300.00, payable, $10.00 cash, and $10.00 per month.

It is better always to buy 60 feet—a most advantageous condition if you happen to want the ground for a home site.

Not only would the purchase of 60 feet afford a large yard, but also an opportunity to have a garden, and many other advantages.

The beauty of SOUTHAMPTON is the beautiful lawns; shrubbery and flowers that you find in every instance where the owner is a resident of SOUTHAMPTON.

We want every thrifty, home-loving man and woman to visit SOUTHAMPTON.

We have got something to offer you.

The opportunity to achieve the desire that must be uppermost in your hearts.

To give the wife a fair chance to live, away from smoke, soot, grime, foul odors of factories.

To give the children a chance to grow up strong and healthy.

To live in a place where they can play out in the open, in the sunshine and fresh air, and be bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked, healthy and happy.

To give the bread-winner of the family the opportunity to leave behind all the drag and weariness of labor, and go home and find conditions that will enable him to recuperate and have renewed strength for the labor of the coming day.

In brief, be 100% efficient.

We are glad of the fact we can offer this ground to the people of St. Louis at the prices at which it is being sold.

A man that owns real estate in St. Louis must naturally be a better citizen.

If he owns real estate in SOUTHAMPTON, he is assured that he is buying at a fair price, for there is no other such ground being offered within the Five-Cent Fare limit.

In the Suburbs you will not only pay the additional car fare, but pay more for your ground, if it is anywhere desirably located.

The SOUTHAMPTON car brings you down town to Fourth and Olive streets in 45 minutes, from your home to the heart of the city.

You can transfer to the SOUTHAMPTON car direct from 36 different lines.

People coming from the west, extreme north and southern part of the city can get transfers on a transfer, that will take you to SOUTHAMPTON by the most direct route.

Cars run on schedule time. If you are a resident of SOUTHAMPTON you readily adjust your mind to these conditions and go to your corner to get your car with the same certainty you would go to the Station to take your train to any other point of destination.

We want good people to come to SOUTHAMPTON.

We want to help you to get your families away from the trying conditions under which you are now existing.

Enable your wife and family to live under better conditions, and make you better able to accomplish your daily task.

The difference in increased ability and the better conditions under which your family will exist, of itself will pay you to make the effort.

Last but not least, in the event that you do make the effort, the liberal conditions upon which the ground is sold will not make it necessary for you to strain until you are blue in the face with anxiety, and deprive your family of any reasonable necessity in order to acquire title to one or more of these lots.

We are prepared to make building loans, and in event your lot is paid for, will, you may be assured, do everything in our power to enable you to have a home within reason and in proportion to your ability to pay.

We do not want anyone to fail.

Office on grounds open until 7:30 p. m.

STOCK MARKET DECLINES, THEN RALLIES SLOWLY

Final Prices Show Irregular Changes for the Day—Money Is Easier.

American Stocks Are Easier on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Money and discount rates were easy today. The nearness of the settlement and the holiday tomorrow restricted business on the Stock Exchange and the tendency was undecided. Mexican securities declined on the latest reports from Mexico, Marconi shares sagged and Paris offered its favorites. Consols, however, were steadily maintained. American securities opened quiet and moved irregularly within narrow limits during the forenoon. Later the market declined on realizing and in sympathy with the weakness in Mexicans. The closing was easy.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"There was a better tone to the stock market today, following a good deal of irregularity in the early trading, when some stocks declined rather sharply.

"There was no new developments to count for the weakness in the first hour, when the lowest prices of the day were made. On the more assuring advices from the crop sections, with news of rainfall in Oklahoma and Kansas, the tone of the market changed and the whole list became firm.

"There was no heavy trading, however, in any of the active shares, but the market retained its strength in the last hour, when such shares as Amalgamated Copper, Reading, and United States Steel became very strong on the advance.

Money Rates Easier.

"Two developments in the money market here were of far-reaching importance. One was the reduction in commercial paper rates, with sales of exceptionally high-grade paper at a 5¾ per cent basis for long periods, as against 6 per cent asked previously and a further lowering in the rates for time loans running for terms of less than six months.

"No large sums were put out by the banks at these terms, but the concessions were made in certain instances and had a good deal of influence upon the money market situation.

"The inquiry for high-grade paper has broadened so materially within the last few weeks as to make it difficult for the brokers to supply those banks which insist upon placing only the very best names on their books.

"Preparations by the banks to secure public deposits under the forthcoming distribution by the treasury discloses the fact that no fixed upon course of action had been determined upon, and that Washington officials find it necessary to judge each application upon its merits.

"Inability on the part of the banks to ascertain just what bonds would be available as collateral, has made it necessary for various institutions to defer giving out buying order in bonds until they are certain that the Government officials well accept the securities offered.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Speculative selling was focused on the three recognized leaders with heaviest pressure on steel. Foreign sentiment was again depressed and part of the early supply of stocks came from abroad. At home the disturbed state of affairs in Mexico was once more cited as the chief cause of depression. Conditions in some of the agricultural states was reported as better with rains in sections of the corn and cotton belt. Neither this factor nor the record-breaking foreign trade statement was taken into account, and the market continued heavy throughout the morning.

Selling of investment stocks which recently have been liberally absorbed, attracted some attention. Declines of 1 to 2 points were effected in a dozen or more stocks of varied character and although there was a slight upturn shortly before noon the movement was of small importance. Bonds were easy.

First prices of stocks today showed an easing off among the more prominent issues. Trading was on a small scale and changes in most cases were limited to unimportant fractions. Retirement of American Locomotive from the automobile industry caused a decline in the stock of nearly a point.

Large selling orders were distributed in Steel and Union Pacific and their weakness soon permeated the whole market. Both Steel and Union Pacific yielded over a point each, touching 61⅝ and 151⅞ respectively.

Weakness cropped out in New Haven after the stockholders' meeting to ratify the proposed issue of $67,000,000 debenture bonds got under way, and it sagged to 98½, a new low record. Other stocks which had been creeping up slowly since pressure relaxed stopped rising and speculation became stagnant.

Covering operations were on a larger scale, causing a complete recovery from morning declines. Chesapeake & Ohio was bought actively for both accounts and rose 1⅝.

RAILWAYS PFD. SHOWS BETTER BUYING DEMAND

Price Is Nearly One Point Higher at $32.25—Bank List Is Steady.

ST. LOUIS CLEARING HOUSE STATEMENT.

	Clearings.	Balances.
Today	$10,577,255	$560,628
Last week	11,123,187	870,828
Decrease	$545,932	$310,205

Trade was more active in local securities Friday, and the price range was fractionally advanced on several issues. United Railways securities reflected a better demand than has been prevalent in some time.

United Railways preferred stock was almost 1 point higher on transfers at $32 and $32.25, with closing bids at $32 and offers at $32.50. The common was wanted at ⅜ points advance at $10.37½ bid and offers were far away at $11.25. The 4s were inactive but firm.

National Bank of Commerce was ½ point higher on sales at $134.50, but later was offered at that figure with $134 bid. Other bank and trust shares were steady.

International Shoe common stock was well taken at $87. Bonds were steady on the quotations established.

Local Money Market.

Some of the larger banking institutions in St. Louis during the past week have anticipated financial operations usually seen only in September, and have been very heavy buyers of the very best names seen on commercial paper houses bulletins.

Rates have shown a less firm tone, and at the close of the week 6 per cent the maximum, with this quotation are shaded in a number of notable instances.

Country business has been of ample proportions, and there is every reason to look for large deposits after the turn of the month.

August is usually the most critical month of the year in many respects, and its passing without any mishap is a course for general satisfaction.

Rates are 5¾ to 6½ per cent but the average is about 6 per cent for all datings.

WET WEATHER MAP IS A HELP TO COTTON BEARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Private predictions of better weather in the Southwest and reports of rain in Texas and Oklahoma gave the cotton market an unsettled appearance this morning. Liverpool was lower and the local market opened at a decline of 6 to 7 points.

The early afternoon rally carried prices back to practically the closing figures of last night. Active months were 10 to 12 points net lower again around 2 o'clock. The closing showed losses.

Cotton spot quiet; middling uplands, 12.15c; gulf, 12.40c. Sales, 200 bales.

Excellent demand for choice stock, particularly lambs, raised values in the sheep pens. The run was light.

MODERN MILLER

Most reports received this week refer to damage to the corn crop, and little attention was given wheat. Threshing of winter wheat has been delayed because of rains, and in some localities it is said the grain shows indications of sprouting. There has been more plowing for the fall seeding of wheat as a result of the rains and cooler weather. Less than the usual acreage has been prepared so far, but with favorable weather this work will be facilitated. Since farmers have been busy in the fields plowing, there has been a marked falling off in the movement of winter wheat to market, and there is a tendency to hold for higher prices, especially since the market has been going up.

Speculation was dead dull in the corn market Friday, but prices were slightly easier on good rains over the corn belt in the section east of the Mississippi River. Cables were steady and Argentine shipments lighter than last week. Reports of shipments of Argentine corn to New York influenced bearish sentiment.

Wheat futures were easier. The spring wheat belt was clear and fine for harvest, and there were no reports of frost in Canada, which stimulated prices Thursday.

Argentine shipments were light, cables steady and indications for smaller world's shipments this week. Primary receipts were fairly heavy.

The Liverpool wheat market responded to steadier American markets yesterday and opened ⅛d to ¼d higher, and following the opening the near month further advanced ⅛d with the undertone steady. Spot markets were generally ½d higher. American offers of winters were firmer. Following the opening the market was dull, with cargoes and parcels rather firmly held. Reports of improved weather in France and Germany checked the advance.

Liverpool corn opened ⅛d to ¼d higher and later further advanced ⅛d with the undertone firm. Easier American cables were offset by lighter Argentine shipments and firmer Plate holders and a report that an American firm had chartered a large British vessel to transport corn from Buenos Ayes to New York. Shorts covered freely, with Plate spot 1d higher.

Minneapolis wheat cars were 202, against 175 and 195. Duluth, 29, against 34 and 9. Winnipeg 40, against 77 and 44. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 800,000 bu for the week.

Total primary wheat receipts were 1,015,000 bu, against 1,209,000; shipments, 652,000 bu, against 501,000 bu last year. Corn receipts 453,000 bu, against 337,000 bu last year; shipments 213,000 bu, against 204,000 last year. Oats receipts 1,152,000 bu, against 832,000 bu last year; shipments 535,000 bu.

Liverpool—Wheat closed unchanged; corn ⅛d to ¼d higher. Berlin, wheat ⅝c higher; Budapest, ½c higher. Paris, unchanged to 1c lower; flour 1¼c to 3¾c higher. Antwerp, wheat ⅝c higher.

Broomhall estimates world's wheat shipments this week, exclusive of North America, at 4,400,000 bu. He predicts a moderate decrease in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage to the United Kingdom, but a fair increase to the Continent.

Indian wheat shipments this week were 936,000 bu; last week, 1,848,000 bu; last year, 1,168,000. Australian shipments, 360,000 bu; last week, 584,000 bu; last year, 1,096,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled: "Argentine holders are firmer, owing to bad reports from America and lighter country offers. Shipments have recently shown a sharp falling off and stocks are decreasing. It is generally conceded that either the bulk of shipments are over or else owners are awaiting higher prices. Total corn shipments for the season from April 1 to date have amounted to over 100,000,000 bu, or an average of 5,000,000 bu weekly.

Bradstreet's clearances of wheat and flour for the week were 7,033,000 bu; corn 61,000 bu.

Duluth wheat stocks decrease 222,000 bu for five days.

Clearances: Wheat 787,000 bu; flour 24,000; corn 1000; oats none. Wheat and flour 895,000.

Argentine wheat shipments for the week were 592,000 bu, against 1,088,000 bu last week and 1,096,000 bu last year. Corn 4,937,000, against 7,642,000 bu and 5,832,000 bu.

Chicago wheat cars were 206; corn 60; oats 238. Estimated Saturday, wheat, 211, corn 69, oats 275.

The Jarr Family

A daily record written for the Post-Dispatch Comic Page.

By ROY L. M'CARDELL

Mr. Jarr meets an old friend in the guise of a new enemy.

"WHAT'S going to be sprung?" asked Jenkins, the bookkeper, as Mr. Jarr came out of the boss' office.

"All of us, out of our jobs," said Mr. Jarr.

"'Smatter?" inquired Johnson, the cashier, coming over.

"The boss has hired an efficiency engineer. Waste is going to be eliminated in this office."

"There is nothing being wasted here," said Johnson.

"Well, the men who are efficient need have no fear," remarked Mr. Jarr.

For he thought he might as well sink with flags flying; and he spoke as though the boss had called him in to consult with him rather than to find fault.

But Johnson wouldn't let him get away with it.

"I heard him bawling you out!" he snarled. "That's more than he did with us!"

This was not strictly true. Johnson and Jenkins had gotten theirs before Mr. Jarr arrived. Mr. Jarr suspected as much.

"Results will show," he said impressively. "All I've got to say is that intelligent and efficient men have no need to worry."

"Just when the mortgage was due!" murmured Jenkins, who had a little place in the country.

"I know what this efficiency system thing means," said Johnson, after a pause. "Before I came with this firm I was managing bookkeeper with a big collection agency, and one of these 'co-ordinate efficiency' crazes struck the place. We got an office engineer and he installed a $20,000 card index file system with cross references.

"Everything worked like clockwork until a fiend in human form whom we were dunning returned our blank form letters, as requested, but changed the serial numbers and alphabetical references on them. That slipped a cog in the system and it ravelled to pieces first and then choked itself to death in its own red tape.

"Two of the filing clerks went daffy and the firm had to move out of the building and leave the card index files and punching machine behind. You can go past there at any hour and hear it clanking away, for it was a duplex automatic system."

"What can they do here to simplify things any more than we have them?" asked the bookkeeper dolefully.

"They can install a system through which, by hiring seven or eight experts and putting in automatic machines and endless card index wheels, at a cost of some $20,000 a year or so, we will be able to do away with the services of one office boy and an assistant shipping clerk and save their salaries," said Johnson.

"It looks bad, it looks bad!" muttered Jenkins.

"What do you care?" Mr. Jarr inquired. "You've been telling us you've got an offer to go with a bigger firm at better money."

"That's what they all say!" retorted Johnson.

"Well," said Mr. Jarr, "you know how it is with these things. The boss of a big concern is out at a club or a dinner some night and meets a good after-dinner speaker, or a peerless piano player, and remembering his staff has no member that shines in these sterling side lines, he employs the table talker or the piano pounder at a big salary and a long contract to come to the establishment and show the boneheads, who have only been with the concern 20 years or so, how to run the business."

"The first thing they'll do is to install a newer and more costly system of bookkeeping, new counting and adding machines, new cost sheet and card filing systems, but that isn't selling goods," ventured Johnson.

"Yes, I guess you're right," said Mr. Jarr. "We'll have our noses to the grindstone making out efficiency slips and tally sheets on what's in stock. But what we need is orders."

"What sort of a guy is the new efficiency engineer that's going to be put in charge? Did you hear?" asked Jenkins.

"Some fellow with a new line of business patter, a dry, snappy fellow who'll install new style desks and put up partitions. That's the first thing they do to increase the demands for a firm's goods with the jobbing trade and retailers—put up office partitions and have the old push buttons and buzzer-wiring torn out. Oh, yes, and I forgot—a new system of lighting the office—prism glass and reflected electric lighting.

"They've got figures and statistics to prove how increasing the light in the storeroom of a stocking mill in Highland Falls increased the efficiency of the selling force on the road by nine and nine-tenths per cent!" said Mr. Jarr.

At this stage of the conference the office boy handed Mr. Jarr a soiled business card.

"Tell him I can't see him!" said Mr. Jarr. "I haven't any change!"

"You mistake my mission. I'm the new efficiency engineer," said a voice.

And Mr. Jarr and the others turned to greet Michael Angelo Dinkston, itinerant poet and exponent of the new dances!

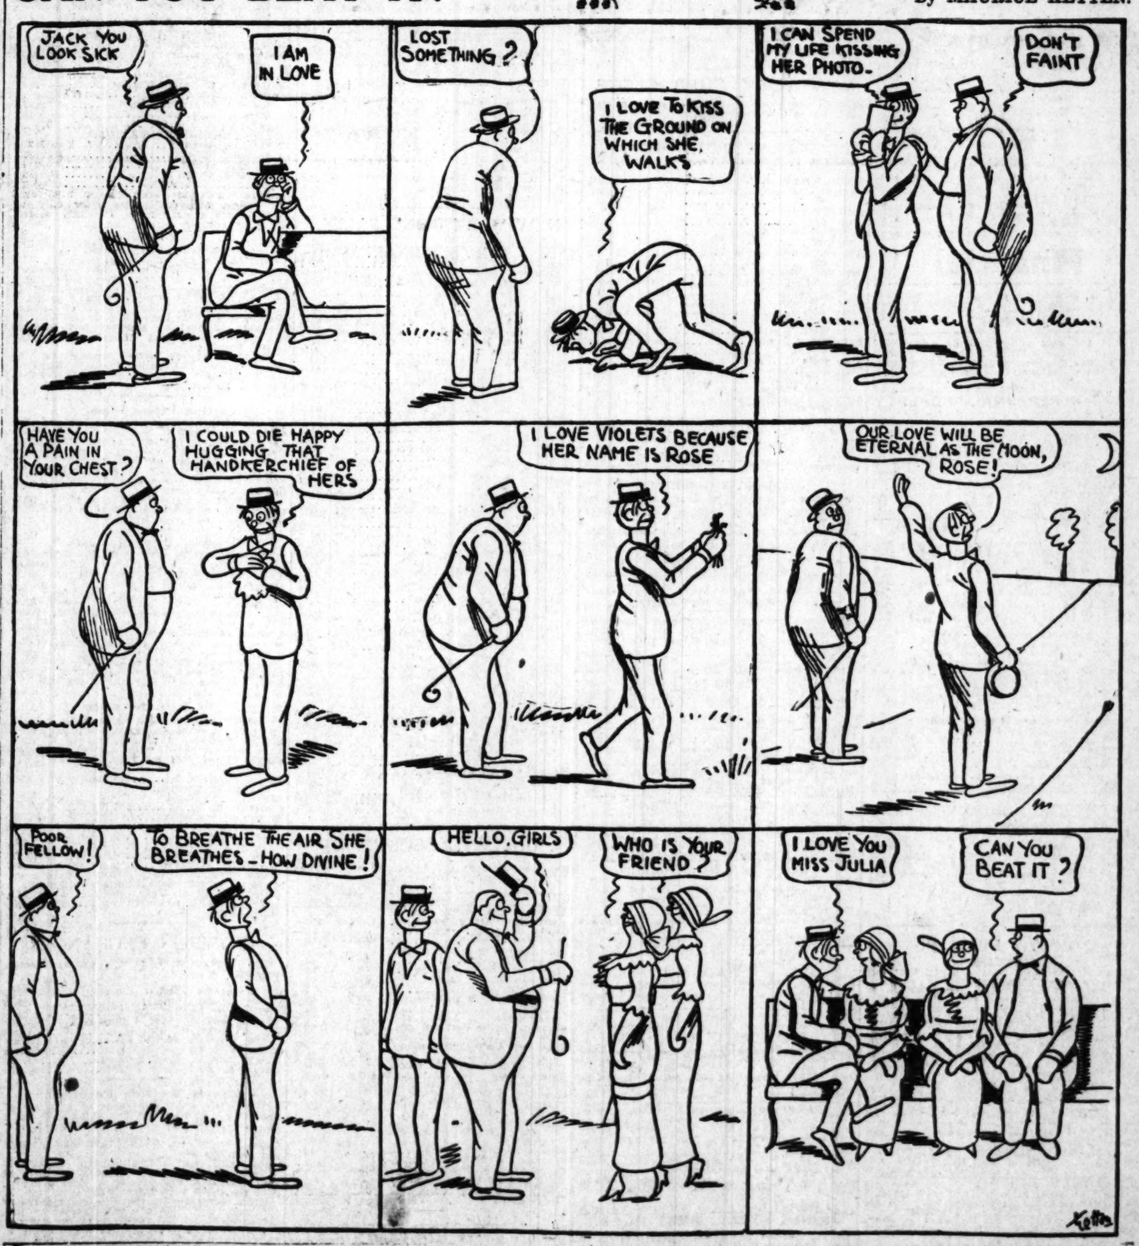

"I'll bet he broke in here by teaching the boss to tango!" muttered Mr. Jarr.

And so it proved.

Stories St. Louisans Tell

A MATTER OF PRONUNCIATION.

FRIENDS tell this story of how Druggist Otto Traubel won a wager. Traubel told Henry Kuhlmann he had a canary which could talk. Kuhlmann was willing to bet it couldn't, and a wager was made. "Now, let's hear the bird talk," demanded Kuhlmann.

"All right," said Traubel. "Of course, you understand, this is a German bird."

"German goes," said Kuhlmann.

Traubel said to the bird: "Rudy, I want to smoke. Shall I smoke a cigar or a pipe?"

"Peep!" chirped the bird.

"That bird may be German, but he talks French," said Kuhlmann. "Anyway, I guess you win."

A Success.

"IS a college education a success for girls?"

"It was a brilliant success in the case of my daughter. She is to marry one of her professors this week."

The Caller.

THE CALLER: How's dear little Fido?

The Hostess: Nicely, thank you. "And the children?"

"Bless me, I forgot to ask the nurse."

He Had to Translate It.

"I'LL have a Juniper Physiognomy," said the man from Boston.

"A what?" roared the bartender.

"A gin fizz," said the Boston man, with a sigh.

Some Girls Do.

"I WONDER why all the girls in our set titter whenever they see me."

"I think your fiance passes your love letters around, my boy."—Kansas City Journal.
